CLARK Memorial Hospital in critical condition from burns and shock, said her mother awakened her but she lost her in the panic and the confusion of the fire that was already razing the ship. The elder Mrs. Jackson has not been heard from.

One person died of burns in a Nassau Hospital, bringing the toll of the disaster to 84. Nineteen burned survivors remained in hospitals in Nassau and Miami. Of five persons airlifted to Miami, three were reported in critical condition and the others "very ill."

The 14 still at Nassau's Princess Margaret Hospital were in serious condition but a spokesman said he had "every hope" that they would survive.

Hits Bottom
The cruise ship plunged 1,700 feet to the bottom of the Atlantic Ocean in the Bahamas Saturday morning after fire swept her so suddenly no distress call was heard.

"We looked back," said Margaret Farrell of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., who was in a lifeboat. "There was a mass of red flames, then gray smoke, then nothing."

The U.S. Coast Guard sent two officers to Nassau, Bahamas, to see if they could learn what caused the holocaust aboard the vessel that left Miami Friday night for Nassau with 376 passengers and a crew of 174.

The Coast Guard investigators also are interested in learning what steps were taken to fight the fire and preserve life. Only MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A Kenosha, Wis., couple was missing today and presumed among the dead after the cruise ship Yarmouth Castle burned and sank at sea.

The ship's owners listed Elmer E. Stanley, 49, and his wife, Joan, 41, as missing. Stanley was production manager of Howard Industries, Inc., of Racine, Wis.

In Kenosha, the couple's son-in-law, Arthur Piccolo, said, "We are assuming they are lost. I don't know how much hope we can have."

Piccolo said he had checked in vain with the shipping agency, consulate officials and hospitals in Nassau, the Bahamas.

Eisenhower Past Worst Danger Period

Son, Brother
Encouraged, Head
Back to Homes

FT. GORDON, Ga. (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower has weathered what his son describes as the period of greatest danger after his heart attack.

Son John and younger brother, Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, were sufficiently encouraged by Eisenhower's progress to head back to their homes Sunday night after observing Mrs. Eisenhower's 69th birthday.

John would not say they no longer felt any anxiety about the condition of the five-star general, now 75.

But, he explained to newsmen, when "the second set of chest pains occurred this last Wednesday, we were advised at that time the period of greatest danger would be four or five days from that point on.

"That time period has ended," John added. And, said the two Eisenhowers, the reports from physicians have been encouraging.

"He seems to me to be really in excellent condition," said Milton Eisenhower, who observed that Ike "seems to me ever so much better" than he was at the same period after his 1955 heart attack in Denver.

He feels good enough, they said, to read "one Western story after another," and has had a record player installed so he can listen to music.

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Commonwealth Secretary-General Arnold Smith told newsmen here none of the nine African-ruled members of the Commonwealth has threatened to withdraw in protest over Britain's decision not to use armed force in white minority-ruled Rhodesia.

Still Has Pain

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, looking well after a recuperative stay of more than three weeks at his Texas ranch, is back at the White House today and plans to stay there at least until Thursday.

But despite a favorable medical report over the weekend, Johnson has told friends he still doesn't feel as well as he did before his Oct. 8 gall bladder-kidney stone operation and has some pain from the operation.

In the final day of his Texas stay Sunday, Johnson was visited at the LBJ Ranch near Johnson City by two Army enlisted men, both veterans of Viet Nam. They accepted Johnson's invitation to accompany the First Family to church services in St. Barnabas Episcopal church in Fredericksburg.

Lot to Pray for

"Come on, we've got a lot to pray for — particularly for our men in Viet Nam," Johnson told Sgt. I.C. Robert S. Vandiver of New Orleans and Spec. 5 Robert G. Sullivan of San Antonio, Tex.

Vandiver and Sullivan showed up at the ranch at 8 a.m. and made their wish to see the President's home place.

Johnson made no advance commitment to see them, but had coffee ready when they arrived. Vandiver and Sullivan told the President about their experiences in Viet Nam.

Next he drove them 15 miles to communion services at St. Barnabas.

The car was jam-packed. In addition to Johnson there was his wife and daughter Lynda Bird. Vandiver and Sullivan, Sullivan's wife Maryellen, Vandiver's wife Patricia and the two Vandiver daughters, Cynthia Ann, 7, and Kathleen, 5.

They heard a prayer by the rector, the Rev. Jack Langford, for all veterans and particularly those in Viet Nam.

Coffee, Cokies

After the services Johnson again piled all kinfolk and guests into a white station wagon for the trip back to the ranch. Trailering newsmen and photographers were invited in for coffee and cookies.

Johnson's White House schedule includes a reception tonight for John A. Gronouski, former postmaster general who is leaving soon to take up his new post as ambassador to Poland.

Wednesday night the Johnsons will give a dinner dance for Britain's Princess Margaret and her husband, the Earl of Snowdon.

Johnson still has made no announcement on where he will meet Dec. 7-8 with West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard — whether it will be in the White House, the LBJ Ranch or elsewhere.

U.S. Planes, Infantry Hit North Vietnamese

Communists Reportedly Suffer Heavy Casualties In Battle Near Cambodia

IA DRANG VALLEY, South Viet Nam (AP) — B52 bombers pounded rear positions of a North Vietnamese regiment today as two American infantry battalions continued to slug it out with the Communist enemy in heavy fighting near the Cambodian border.

Two battalions of 1st Cavalry, Airmobile Division's 7th Regiment—the original outfit followed Gen. George Custer into the Battle of the Little Big Horn—held their own through 36 hours of at times savage fighting.

At least 129 enemy bodies were counted and as many as 150 more were believed to litter the battlefield in front of the American lines.

12 Helicopters
American casualties were termed moderate, but it required more than a dozen helicopters to take out the American wounded. Most of the dead were still in the battle zone. It was too dangerous for helicopters to fly except on urgent missions.

The American troops captured from 60 to 70 automatic weapons of every kind during three major assaults by members of the North Vietnamese 304th Division which infiltrated into South Viet Nam earlier this year.

The B52s hammered an area of the more than two square miles where a main element of the North Vietnamese force was believed located. The American Cavalrymen pulled back before the air attack.

In earlier air action, North Vietnamese gunners blasted one

American A1E Skyraider out of the sky, a U.S. military spokesman reported. The pilot was killed when the plane exploded near the battleground 200 miles north of Saigon in the central highlands.

Most of the U.S. force was inside a narrow, heavily wooded valley while North Vietnamese units held the high ground.

Sniper fire was intense during the lulls between North Vietnamese attacks. American casualties mounted by the hour.

Three North Vietnamese battalions—about 2,000 men—were engaging the American troops and it was possible that others were waiting farther back.

The fighting broke out Sunday

Tshombe Has Chance To Return

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — Moise Tshombe's chances of ousting Congo President Joseph Kasavubu next year were on the rise today after Parliament overthrew the premier Kasavubu named to replace Tshombe.

The month-old government of Premier Evariste Kimba was declared dismissed Sunday after Tshombe's forces defeated a confidence motion during a joint session of the Senate and the Chamber of Deputies. The vote was 121 for Kimba, 134 against and 7 abstentions.

Kasavubu kicked out Tshombe Oct. 13 and replaced him five days later with Kimba. days later with Kimba.

In Sunday's vote the biggest surprise came from the senators, who voted against Kimba 58-49 with 5 abstentions. Six weeks ago the Senate elected a pro-Kimba president, 57-54.

Tshombe's supporters carried the Chamber of Deputies 76-72, off somewhat from their earlier strength of 85-7; six weeks ago when the deputies elected a pro-Tshombe president.

Sheppard
Gets Hearing On Appeal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard, former Cleveland osteopath, was granted today a hearing on a new appeal to the Supreme Court from his conviction and life sentence for the slaying of his first wife.

Sheppard pressed in the new appeal a contention that publicity about his case made it impossible to impanel a fair and impartial jury.

The high tribunal in 1956 refused to review Sheppard's trial and his unsuccessful appeals to Ohio state courts. He then began habeas corpus proceedings in lower federal courts. Losing in this move, Sheppard again appealed to the Supreme Court.

His first wife, Marilyn, was pregnant when she was beaten to death in 1954 in their home. Sheppard said she was killed by a bushy-haired intruder.

Suharto Sees
No Viet Nam
In Central Java

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — May Gen. Suharto, the army chief, declared today Communists in central Java never will be able to create a second Viet Nam in Indonesia.

His remark to reporters came as press reports said some Indonesian Communist rebels in central Java tried to escape to West Java but were intercepted by army troops. There was no word of any captured, however.

One account said D.N. Aidit, the Communist party leader, had escaped an encirclement and now was believed in hiding near the central Javanese city of Jogjakarta.

The military was reported engaged in mopping up operations throughout central Java.

Stronger Economic Sanctions

British Lawmakers Deal With Rhodesian Problem

LONDON (AP) — Britain's Labor government planned to push its emergency Rhodesian legislation through Parliament today. Meanwhile, the British governor of the rebellious central African colony rejected Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith's demand that he get out of Government House.

The legislation to pave the way for stronger economic sanctions against Rhodesia's white minority government was expected to be rushed through Parliament without a formal vote.

Such Conservative diehards as the Marquess of Salisbury in the House of Lords and Patrick Wall and Robert Turton in the House of Commons were opposed to sanctions. But party leader Edward Heath, Reginald Maudling and other members of the opposition party's dominant moderate faction approved the government's action so far.

Chief Actions
The chief actions taken against the Rhodesian regime

are a ban on import of Rhodesian tobacco, which usually amounts to about $70 million a year, and various financial restrictions.

The Rhodesian government after its declaration of independence Thursday relieved Governor Sir Humphrey Gibbs of his office and told him to vacate Government House, his official residence and office.

In a statement addressed to the Rhodesian people Sunday, Gibbs replied that Smith's government was illegal and that the governor was the only "lawfully constituted authority in Rhodesia."

"I hold my office at the pleasure of Her Majesty the Queen and I will only resign if asked by Her Majesty to do so," Gibbs said. "Her Majesty has asked me to continue in office and I therefore remain your loyal governor and the lawfully constituted authority in Rhodesia."

No Move
Smith made no immediate move to eject Gibbs from Government House but in a statement said the governor "is representing not the queen but the British prime minister, thus aiding and abetting him in his obvious endeavor to create a division among the people of Rhodesia."

Looking grim and resolute Smith went to Government House today and held his first face-to-face meeting with Gibbs since declaring independence. Smith was accompanied by his deputy, Clifford Dupont, and Justice Minister Desmond Lardner-Burke. He emerged from the hour-long confrontation and returned immediately to his own office.

Later he was asked if he would evict the governor from Government House and replied:

High Court Decision

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today declared unconstitutional a requirement that members of the Communist party must register with the government.

The requirement is contained in a section of the 1950 Subversive Activities Control Act.

Justice William J. Brennan delivered the 8-0 decision.

Specifically involved in today's decision was William Albritton of Brooklyn, N.Y., and Roscoe Quincy Proctor, of Oakland, Calif. The Subversive Activities Control Board in 1962 ordered Albritton to register. A similar order to Proctor was issued in 1963.

The Justice Department said Proctor was a member of the Communist party's national committee and was on the New York State governing board. The Communist party of New York expelled Albritton on July 7, 1964, calling him a "police agent." He asked, however, that the Supreme Court rule in his case as well as that of Proctor.

Upheld Board
Albritton and Proctor appealed to the high tribunal after the U.S. Court of Appeals here upheld the board orders.

They contended the individual registration requirement violated the Fifth Amendment privilege against self-incrimination and impinged on First Amendment rights of freedom of be-

Avert Propane Tanker Explosion

WATERTOWN (AP) — Explosive liquid propane was pumped safely from a wrecked tanker truck Sunday after the vehicle rolled down a 30-foot embankment.

Gas experts and firemen emptied the vehicle, then pulled it from the ditch along Highways 26 and 16 about 10 miles north of here. The truck driver, Jerome Burg of Mount Calvary, said the tanker was forced off the highway by another car Saturday night. Traffic was rerouted until the liquid propane was pumped out of the truck.

Smothers Prove Their Comedy Know-How

Trial Television Debut Turns Into Hit
Despite Backers, Formidable Competition

By ROB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Tom Smothers tells how his friends laughed about his new television show last summer.

"Sounds great, Tom," they said. "What shows are you opposed to?"

Tom replied that he and his brother faced "Mister Roberts" and "Peyton Place III." The friends' face would invariably fall and he'd offer the weak comment, "Well, I don't watch 'Peyton Place' any more."

Indeed the talk in the trade was that "The Smothers Brothers Show" was the least likely to succeed. A change of production heads, script problems galore, the untold quality of the Smothers as situations comedians — all spelled doom. Too bad, boys, but you can always go back to the night clubs.

Almost Canceled
"The show was almost canceled before we went on the air," said Dick — he's the straight man and bass player. "Tommy and I didn't like the way things were going, and we said so. They kept saying, 'Trust us, we know what we're doing.'"

But they didn't, added Tom, the rubber-faced guitar-playing brother. At one meeting an executive told us, "Maybe you two shouldn't be on television."

I was proud that Dick and I responded in unison without consulting each other. We said, "Maybe you're right. We'll go back to night clubs, where we can make a lot more money without all this grief." We were almost to the door when our manager said, "Wait a minute, fellows, let's talk this over."

Stuck to Guns

The Smos Bros. stuck to their guns, fighting for better scripts and characterization. The reviews of the first show were generally poor, and rightfully so, the boys feel.

But the viewing public, which has an instinct for such things, sensed a winning combination and embraced the show from the beginning. One rating listed "Smothers Brothers" with the highest audience of any new show. This despite the fact that CBS affiliates were so wary of the show that many substituted local programs.

The ratings make the brothers happy but not complacent.

"We've still got a lot to learn," admitted Dick. "We're accustomed to playing before live audiences, where movement counts. But in television, you don't need to wave your arms and make broad gestures. Sometimes just the lift of an eyebrow can put over a point."

"Dick's been taking dramatic lessons," Tom reported. "He started out not knowing how to play his role, it had no character."

Brothers Confident

Dick reported proudly that his coach had pronounced him now "better than adequate," an accolade from the demanding teacher. Tom did not need lessons, he added, "because his character is already established. He's a nut."

The Smothers, who own 50 per cent of the Friday night show, are earning a quarter of their usual income but glad to be doing what they're doing. It keeps them home with their families, although the shooting day is long and strenuous.

Their aim: "To create a really quality show, like Dick Van Dyke's or 'Betwined.' We believe by the end of this season we'll be doing just that."

Andy's Show Features Sid, Andre, Ella

BY TV SCOUT

89 (Channels 4-5) — The Andy Williams Show has a whale of a good session with guests Sid Caesar, Andre Previn and Ella Fitzgerald. Sid in his first TV appearance in some time revives one of his classic comedy gems, the percussionist in an orchestra playing Tchaikovsky's "1812 Overture." He is also in sprightly form joining Andy and dancers in Buster Brown wigs for a funny vignette about an old Bavarian clock. On the musical side, pianist Andre renders a suave melody from "My Fair Lady," and Ella's high style jazz is heard in tunes like "Sweet Georgia Brown" (Color)

6:30-7 (Channels 4-5) — Hulabaloo has that shaggy "Eve of Destruction" man, Barry McGuire for a solid outing of pop rock, pop folk and pop art. He is in good company with guests Brenda Lee, Barbara McNair and The Rolling Stones (Color)

6:30-7:30 (Channels 11-9-9) — "Grant Me No Favor" on 12 O'Clock High is one of those grim father-and-son rows that makes little sense. Barry Sullivan appears as Paul Burke's father, a tough general who thinks there is better "discipline and morale at Leavenworth" than at his son's base. Burke whimpers that neither his Dad nor his Mom ever liked him.

7-7:30 (Channels 4-5) — The John Forsythe Show is in a flutter about a "super girl" — pretty Celia Kaye, a trim little swimmer whose goal is the Olympics. While Ann B. Davis and Guy Marks are eagerly pushing her out of the swim (Color)

7:30-8 (Channels 2-12) — Big husky Clint Walker plays a handsome construction superintendent who is out to win the heroine of The Lucy Show. Lucille Ball is more than willing, but not Gale Gordon, the money pinching banker, who wants the guy to stay on the job (building a new bank) day and night (Color)

9-10 (Channels 2-12) — The Steve Lawrence Show concentrates on the pop beat with excellent success. There's more music than usual with trim and tuneful songs by Steve and guests Caterina Valente and Trini Lopez (Color)

There's No Handicap on Christmas Spirit

Because of Thursday, the homebound handicapped are less dependent and will have a happier holiday. Thursday was the date of the Easter Seal Sale of items these handicapped have made for Christmas.

Thursday, of course, does not stand alone. It is only the culmination of hours spent in concentrated and sometimes painful effort by those who seldom, if ever, leave their homes. They are adults afflicted with crippling diseases, young people who have grown up with birth injuries or deformities, some who have a degree of retardation along with physical problems. For them, unproductive hours would hang heavy indeed.

Encourage Craft Work

The Wisconsin Board of Vocational, Technical and Adult Education Homecraft Division prevents this. Miss Barbara Trachte serves as teacher, guide, friend and finally, best saleswoman for the items and gifts they make.

The Easter Seal Society sponsors the sale, held all day Thursday at the home of Mrs. Charles Buchanan, 229 N. Union St. Thursday as the Christmas Sale was held by the Easter Seal Society. Tea was served throughout the day, with tree decorations gracing the table. Above, Mrs. Arthur Remley, Neenah, serves Mrs. Lehman Bower and Mrs. Harry Marshall. (Post-Crescent Photos)

Browsing Through the wide variety of gifts for children made by homebound handicapped for the holiday sale are Mrs. Ralph Jacobsen and Mrs. W. J. Yankus. Dolls, stuffed animals, Christmas stockings and items of clothing all tempted shoppers with a taste for early buying. At right, Miss Barbara Trachte, who serves as instructor for the handicapped during the year, arrives with additional sale items.

Princess Heads East to Resume Official Schedule

By DORIS KLEIN
TUCSON, ARIZ. (AP) — Britain's Princess Margaret and her husband, the Earl of Snowdon, leave today for Washington, D.C. after a 10-day visit in the western United States.

They will stay at the British Embassy as guests of British Ambassador Sir Patrick Dean and Lady Dean and attend a reception given by the National Press Club and the Women's National Press Club tonight.

Tuesday they will lay a wreath on President John F. Kennedy's grave, tour Mount Vernon, have lunch at the British Embassy, visit Washington Cathedral and attend a reception given by Ambassador and Lady Dean.

White House Dinner

Public engagements Wednesday include a visit to the National Gallery of Art and dinner that night with President and Mrs. Johnson at the White House. In the afternoon, the princess will have tea with wives of U.S. senators at the home of Mrs. Edward M. Kennedy.

Thursday, Lord Snowdon will visit the Washington Zoo and with the princess, tour the Smithsonian Institution.

Private engagements include a party given by Mrs. Nicholas Katzenbach, wife of the attorney general.

On to Bermuda

The Snowdons leave Thursday for New York, the final leg of their 20-day U.S. tour. They will be the guests of former Ambassador to Great Britain John Hay

Whitney, publisher of the New York Herald Tribune.

New York activities include a tour of the United Nations, a ball Friday and a final party

Nov. 23, given by Sharron Douglas, the princess' teen-age chum and U.S. guide. They end their U.S. tour Nov. 24 and leave for Bermuda.

The royal couple arrives at Andrews Air Force Base near Washington on one of the Lockheed Jet Stars assigned to President Johnson.

Throughout their five-day stay in Tucson—the only private leg of their tour—the princess and Lord Snowdon continued partying with old and new friends from Hollywood.

Actress Hope Lange and her husband, producer Alan Pakula, met the royal couple eight days ago at a Hollywood party given by Miss Douglas. The Pakulas were invited to Tucson to stay with the Snowdons at the 200-acre ranch of Sharron's parents, former Ambassador to Great Britain and Mrs. Lewis Douglas.

The royal pair encountered Tucson residents twice—for 40 minutes at a cocktail party given by the Douglasses and at church Sunday.

The Snowdons didn't see much of other churchgoers at St. Philip's in the Hills Episcopal church. After taking communion the princess, her husband and her lady-in-waiting left before the service was over.

Combined Locks

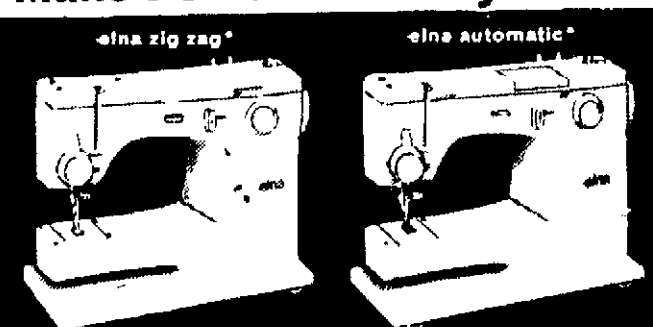

Lesley Bunting, 22-year-old Miss Rhodesia, arrived in London to compete in the Miss World beauty pageant. Because of the existing political crisis, competition organizers said they would have to check the rules to see if the graduate of Salisbury University is eligible. "I'm an Ian Smith girl all the way," she states. (AP Wirephoto)

'B' Team Wins Title In Europe

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD
Only one member of the world championship Italian team, Giorgio Belladonna, played on the junior varsity Italian team that won the championship of Europe in September. Fittingly enough, Belladonna clinched the victory for his team by making a difficult game contract in the last of eighteen matches after two weeks of play.

Playing the Roman System, Belladonna bid two spades to show length in both spades and clubs. North jumped to game in spades with fine trump support and ability to ruff clubs.

West opened the king of diamonds, and Belladonna smoothly dropped the queen. This should not have deceived a fine defender. East had played the three of diamonds on the first trick and would not have done so if he had held 10-7-3-2. If East didn't have the deuce of diamonds, South surely had it.

Nevertheless, West was afraid to lead another diamond. Looking for a better suit to lead, West shifted to the worst card in his hand—the jack of spades.

Limits Loss
Belladonna gratefully covered with dummy's queen of spades, capturing the king with the ace. This limited the trump loss to one trick. He led a club to dummy's queen and discarded his diamond on the ace of hearts, thus making his contract with an overtrick.

At the other table the Danish North-South pair bid to four spades but were unlucky enough to have North declarer instead of South. West could safely take two diamonds since he could see the queen and deuce in the dummy.

The Danish declarer eventually lost two trump tricks by leading a trump to the ace and then back toward the queen. He could have made the contract by a better guess in trumps: the best way to start the suit is with a low card from the South hand.

So Belladonna and his teammates picked up 500 points—and the match, nosing out the Netherlands to win the European championship.

Firm Skin With Brisk Spanking

To keep skin taut and youthful, try massaging your neck once a day with a thick soap lather. Build up a sudsy "paste" and work it into the skin from the base of the throat up and out to the tip of the chin, using strong quick motions.

"Spank" the skin firmly to stimulate circulation in that area. Then finish up with a cold water rinse, and pat dry.

Your Problems Using Police as Threat Is Parental Mistake, Officer Says

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a police officer in a large city and I ask you to print my letter as a public service.

Last week we received a "lost child" call. A five-year-old boy had wandered away from home, and the parents were frantic. It took 50 policemen almost 24 hours to find the child. He was hiding in a garage two blocks from his home.

When we found him I asked, "Didn't you see the police? Didn't you know we were looking for you?" The boy answered, "Yes, I saw the police. But Mommy always told me that if I was a bad boy the police would put me in jail. I was afraid."

Why do parents use the police as a bogeyman to frighten small children? Youngsters should be taught that the police officer is a friend. This attitude of fear often carries over into adulthood and the cop is considered an enemy.

"Please, Ann, explain to people how wrong this is. We officers need your help. Thanks — O.M.

Dear O.M.: You've explained it — and I hope it hits home.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am almost 14 years old and I am scared to death of bugs. When I see a spider I just about crack up. Even a grasshopper throws me into a sweat. Caterpillars and things that crawl are enough to make me nearly faint.

I hate to think of going through life scared of little things. None of my friends have this problem so I know I'm not normal. Why am I like this?

Landers

Please help me. — All Bugged Up

Dear Bugged: When you were very young you were probably frightened by a bug and you never got over being afraid.

It is normal to fear the unknown. If you knew more about bugs you wouldn't be terrified.

Read up on bugs — they are fascinating creatures. Then go out and find a ladybug and put one on your hand. From ladybugs go on to fireflies, then grasshoppers. You might become so interested that you may decide to be an entomologist.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am so burned up I can hardly see. Please correct my spelling because I am too mad to spell right.

I sent a wedding gift to the daughter of a friend. This afternoon the bride's mother asked me to go over to her daughter's apartment to see how nicely she had fixed everything up.

Well, I looked high and low for our wedding gift, which should have been in sight. When I didn't see it I asked where it was. The bride said, "I didn't want to bother you, but your gift arrived broken so I took it back to the store and got something else of equivalent value."

I feel this was one heck of a lot of nerve. If a gift arrives broken shouldn't the receiver let the giver know? Is it the bride's place to take matters into her own hands and find out how much the gift cost? Please publish my letter and your reply and educate certain ignorant people. Thanks — Mrs. Burnt

Dear Mrs.: Sorry, Lady, but I can't understand why your hair is on fire. I think the girl was considerate, not nervy. She spared you trouble by doing the job herself.

Liquor can ruin your mind, your body and your life. To learn the booby traps of teenage drinking, write for Ann Landers' booklet, "Teen-age Drinking," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Resistant to Rot, Mildew and Moths

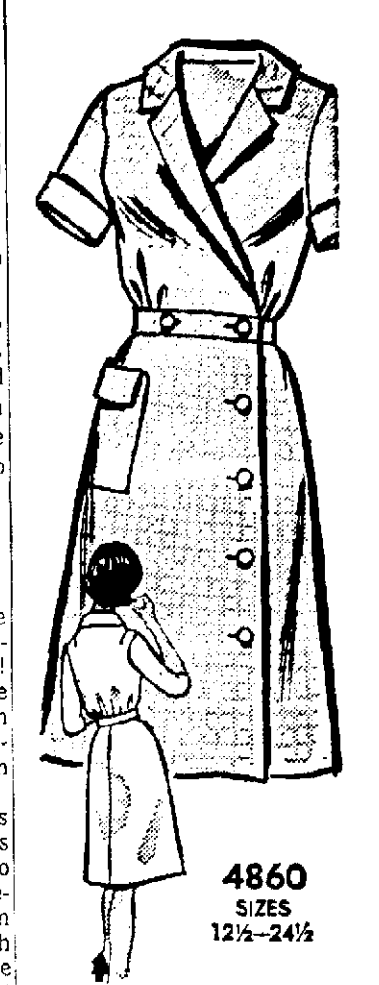

While most fabric finishes are applied professionally, sometimes you can do it yourself! For example, there is a durable elastic coating, which you can apply at home to rugs, draperies, canvas, gabardine, or even delicate silks.

All of its many colors — as well as clear — make fabrics moth-proof and resistant to water, mildew, and rot. Subsequent laundering is no problem because any fabric treated with this "top-life" coating can be laundered in soap or detergent suds.

Imaginative Dash

If you want to use potato starch for thickening instead of flour, use a half tablespoon of the starch for every tablespoon of flour called for.

Sleeveless Sweaters

This is a time of year for wearing sleeveless sweaters — but several rules should be observed: (1) Be careful that sweater doesn't cause a jacket gap at neck; (2) a sweater should not be worn under a dressy, business-type suit; (separate vests are better); do not wear one with a neck that hides most of your tie and the points of your collar. If you ever find yourself without a shochorn, one of those little celluloid or plastic calendars that you probably have in your wallet will work fine.

Women Apply for Stock Exchange Memberships

The American Stock Exchange has announced—that applications for regular membership had been submitted by Julia Montgomery Walsh of Ferris & Company and Phyllis S. Peterson of Sade & Co.—the first women to seek full membership on the Exchange in its 116-year history.

The Exchange's Admissions Committee has recommended approval of their applications after personal appearances by Mrs. Walsh and Mrs. Peterson before the Committee in New York on Tuesday. Under Exchange admissions procedures, Exchange members have been notified formally of the applications. The posting period extends for one week. The Exchange's 32-member Board of Governors is expected to act on the applications on Thursday.

Business Woman

Mrs. Walsh has been active in the securities business for 10 years, joining Ferris & Company in Washington, D.C., as a registered representative in 1955. She became a general partner of the firm in 1959. Mrs. Peterson has been a general partner in the regular member firm of Sade & Co., also in Washington, since 1963. She joined Sade & Co. as an account executive trainee in 1960 and became a full-fledged registered representative a year later.

Ferris & Company, now an associate member, would become a regular member organization of the Exchange through Mrs. Walsh's election. Mrs. Walsh would take one of 151 new seats set aside by the Exchange in April of 1963 for qualified representatives of associate member organization—a move designed to broaden Exchange membership nationally and to encourage associate member firms to take a more active role in Exchange affairs. Thus far, 120 of the new seats have been spoken for.

Mrs. Peterson would assume the regular membership now held by Leo Sade, the senior partner of Sade & Co. Both women would continue to be associated with office functions at their firms' headquarters offices in Washington.

The election of Mrs. Walsh and Mrs. Peterson would bring Exchange regular membership to an all-time high of 618 members representing brokerage houses with more than 3,000 offices coast-to-coast and in 20 foreign countries.

Mrs. Walsh is sponsored by George M. Ferris Sr., senior partner of Ferris & Company, and Edgar Scott, senior partner in Montgomery Scott & Co., Philadelphia. Mrs. Peterson's sponsors are William Gregory III, a general partner in Gregory & Sons, New York, and Mr. Sade.

Qualifications

To qualify for regular membership on the American Exchange, an applicant must be actively engaged in the securities business for at least six months, hold United States citizenship and meet Exchange requirements regarding health, character and financial standing.

Besides her brokerage activities, Mrs. Walsh has been active in setting up adult education programs and seminars on investments for the general public in the Washington area. Mrs. Peterson, in addition to handling customers' accounts, performs a variety of administrative functions for Sade & Co. and is the partner in charge of the firm's Charlottesville, Virginia, office.

Prior to joining Ferris & Company, Mrs. Walsh served as personnel officer at the U.S. Consulate in Munich, Germany, and headed the U. S. Educational Commission in Ankara, Turkey, while her then-husband, Col. John Montgomery, was the assistant Army attache there. Col. Montgomery died in December, 1957.

Mrs. Walsh later married Thomas M. Walsh, then a realtor in the Washington area and a past president of the Washington Real Estate Board. The Walshes have 12 children, including four by Mrs. Walsh's earlier marriage to Col. Montgomery and seven of Mr. Walsh's previous marriage.

Mrs. Walsh is financial editor of U. S. Lady Magazine, a magazine for women in the U. S. Foreign Service, and a frequent lecturer at meetings of industry, financial, civic and school groups across the nation. She was graduated magna cum laude in 1945 with a bachelor degree in business administration from Kent State University in Kent, Ohio. She completed the Investment Bankers Institute Course at the University of Pennsylvania's Wharton School of Finance and was the only woman accepted and graduated from the Advanced Management Program of the Harvard Graduate School of Business.

Mrs. Peterson was graduated from American University in Washington with a bachelor of arts degree in music and from The New England Conservatory of Music in Boston, Massachusetts. She was a violinist with the New England Symphony Orchestra for three years.

She studied investments at Richmond University, Virginia, and at the Institute of Finance, New York City.

Mrs. Peterson is married to Sumner W. Peterson, a retired Air Force colonel who now works with J. D. Marsh Associates, a financial advisers, in Washington. The Petersons have two teen-age daughters.

Women are playing an ever-increasing role in the securities industry. Approximately 40 women are full-time general partners or officers in member brokerage houses of the Exchange. Several hundred women are employed by member organizations as registered representatives handling customer accounts and as security analysts.

Dig Used Caulking From Sink

BY ROGER WHITMAN

Q Please tell me how to remove old, crumbly caulking from around an old kitchen sink.

A: Dig, brother, dig. Use a sturdy, pointed weapon, such as a beer can opener, ice pick (if you still have one around) or an awl. If you're planning to force in new caulking, don't worry if you don't get every scrap of the old stuff out. Seventy-five per cent or so will be okay.

Q: My knotty pine kitchen cabinets were never finished. Now they are shabby looking. I have been told I shouldn't wash them. How can I clean them?

A: Wipe with turpentine and a cloth. Unless they are quite greasy, this should do the job. If you'll put on a natural finish, such as a prime coat of pure, fresh white shellac, followed by clear varnish or well-rubbed wax, you'll find keeping the cabinet clean a much easier job.

Q: The asbestos shingles on our siding are weather-beaten and dirty. Can I paint them? If so, is there any special method?

A: The cleaner you can get them, within reason, the better. If you can scrub them with a brush, fine. If you can't, at least a good rinsing with the hose, then thorough drying. Before applying an oil-base paint, give the shingles a coat of boiled linseed oil, to feed any dry spots and avoid having the paint look patchy. (If you don't, any dry spots will pull out oil from the paint.) With watermixed latex paints, this won't happen.

Q: One section of our concrete patio has developed cracks, and between them the section has sunk quite noticeably below the rest of the floor. How can I repair this?

A: Sounds as though the supporting and drainage bed wasn't tamped thoroughly. So when it finally settled down it no longer supported the concrete area above it. While you can certainly spread a new patch of concrete over the sunken section to level it with the rest, I believe you'll find the most permanently satisfactory results by covering the entire floor with a new course (layer).

A Lovelier You

Lovelier Legline

A lovely writes: My legs look chapped the year round. The trouble is visible through my tights. I've tried all sorts of lotions without success. Could shaving be the cause? Although I use a good safety razor, the condition flares up after defuzzings.

The Answer: Shaving can rough up the skin. But your method, rather than your razor, is probably at fault. Let's see! First off it is absolutely essential to use a sharp blade. Since the territory covered is extensive, blades should be replaced often. Possibly after each use.

A second must is shaving soap or a pre-shave lotion or a foaming conditioner. Several are made especially for women and are good for rinsing after the job and the step is important. Others are left on and act as a skin lotion.

Good results also come from a pre-shave application of creamy, liquid hand lotion. You slather it on and, after razoring, massage in the remaining film.

While the cleanest finish results from shaving against the direction of growth, the reverse tactic may be easier on the skin. In any event, the skin must be protected with hand or body lotion between depilations. Apply it on arising, retiring and whenever you change stockings.

If after a fair trial of these methods the problem is still unsolved — and that is unlikely — you should investigate a lady's safety or electric shaver and leg care kits.

Seek to Speed Work on School At Freedom

Gym and Cafeteria Facilities Incomplete, Board Is Informed

FREEDOM — The district school board has asked Supt. H. W. Patch to contact the contractor and architect for the new elementary - junior high school in an effort to speed completion of the gymnasium and cafeteria facilities.

The new school has been operated since the beginning of the fall term. The sewage disposal plant for it was scheduled to arrive by the end of October.

Principal William Van Laanen reported the program at the new school was progressing satisfactorily.

Board members Orville Appleton and Elmer Smith have agreed to contact Landwehr Inc. and ask to have additional phone placed on the school driveway.

Check Deeds-Abstracts

School Atty. Vernon Lubinski is checking deeds and abstracts on the old schools and when the work is completed the board anticipates selling the buildings. The board asked Supt. Patch to obtain an estimate from the selling tile contractor at the new school for remodeling an acoustics problem in one of the high school rooms. Patch has recommended both acoustical and ventilation improvements.

A fixed charge of $5 per member was set by the board to cover cost of a gym supervisor for the alumni gym night.

Water Supply Up In New York City

NEW YORK (AP) — New York City's water supply is up one-tenth of one per cent over the same date last year, but all emergency measures to save water still are in force.

It was the first time since April 7, when water-use restrictions went into effect, that New York City had more water in storage than on the same date a year ago.

The level in reservoirs Sunday was 35 per cent of capacity. Last year on Nov. 14 it was 34.9 per cent. A normal reserve is 67.9 per cent.

A 1.36- to 1.6-inch rainfall fell in the watershed Saturday.

Replace Old Coins

Mint Magic Will Take Painless $2.5 Million

Special to the Post-Crescent

NEW YORK — By means of a bit of abracadabra, Uncle Sam is about to extract some $2,572,020 from the pockets of residents of Outagamie, Calumet, Waupaca and Winnebago counties. And they won't even feel it.

Nothing up the sleeves. It's just a coin trick, trading new coins for old.

Very soon, now, the Treasury Department will be flooding the country with new-style coins containing little or no silver.

Instead of dimes and quarters with a 90 per cent silver content, as at present, they will be made of an alloy of copper and nickel.

$1 Piece The Same

The amount of silver in the half-dollar coins will be reduced from 90 per cent to 40 per cent. No change is being made in the $1 pieces.

In Outagamie County, on the basis of average distribution, there are approximately 37 dimes, 20 quarters and six half-dollars in circulation per local resident. Their total face value is $11.70.

From the standpoint of metallic content, the $3.70 in dimes are actually worth $3.46, the $5.00 of quarters are worth $4.68 and the $3 of 50-cent pieces, $2.81, according to the Mint. The total is $10.95.

The quantity of coins of these denominations belonging to the Outagamie County population as a whole represents a metallic value of $1,192,460.

Not all of them are jingling about, at any one time, in people's purses and pockets. Some are in the cash registers of stores, some are in local banks and some are stashed away in sugar bowls at home.

Under the new setup, the Treasury Department stands to make a profit estimated at close to $500 million.

If the Government has its way, the money would be called "miscellaneous receipts" and would be used to cut the deficit in the budget.

Some Congressmen don't like that idea, however. They have a variety of other suggestions for its use.

The effect of the change upon the other counties in the local area are indicated below:

County	Present Value	New Value	Decrease
Calumet	$ 257,330	$ 42,540	$ 214,790
Waupaca	384,350	63,530	320,820
Winnebago	1,247,200	206,150	1,041,050

Saline Water Program To be Chemists' Topic

Dr. William H. McCoy from the Office of Saline Water, United States Department of the Interior, will speak at 8 p.m. Tuesday at a meeting of the Northeast Wisconsin Section of the American Chemical Society at St. Norbert College, West De Pere.

The speaker will review the Saline Water Conversion Program. Dr. McCoy, currently chief of the division of chemical physics, received his Ph.D. in chemistry from the University of Pittsburgh.

The difference, called "seigniorage," is a windfall for the government.

During the first year of production alone, the Treasury Department stands to make a profit estimated at close to $500 million.

If the Government has its way, the money would be called "miscellaneous receipts" and would be used to cut the deficit in the budget.

Some Congressmen don't like that idea, however. They have a variety of other suggestions for its use.

His principal research interests concern the thermodynamic, transport and spectral properties of water and electrolyte solutions.

MEN NEVER OUTGROW THEIR FONDNESS FOR TOYS! TRUE OR FALSE?

True The flying of model planes, for example is now almost entirely an adult sport. One maker of such planes laments, "We've lost the last generation of kids. The reason for this are twofold. 1. Model planes may cost several hundreds of dollars and children rarely have that kind of money. 2. Model planes are now often radio-controlled and children lack the technical know-how to operate them. Another example is toy trains. If your child gets a toy train next Christmas see if Pop doesn't play it offener. Do married students regret having married when they did?"

Yes — No —

Studies find a variety of responses to the question. If you had it to do all over again, would you marry when you did?" One preceptive reply was "Well, yes, we probably would."

Plastic Surgery Can be Blessing After Tragedy

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner Please tell me how to contact a plastic surgeon regarding breast implants, and the cost of such an operation — J.W.

I've briefly answered this type of question frequently, but since inquiries keep coming in, some further elaboration is in order.

It isn't just about breast surgery—although at times I think the writers who have inveighed against the god Mammon might devote a few words to the goddess Mammalia.

However, whether the purpose of plastic surgery is to improve noses, wrinkles, cleft palates, etc., ask your regular physician to refer you to a specialist. It's as simple as that. If you don't have a regular physician (although everyone should) you can get reliable advice from your county medical society.

Do not assume, as many people do, that plastic surgery is something apart from the world of medicine. True, there are occasional charlatans who claim to have "secret" ways of removing wrinkles, just as there are even more dangerous cer quacks and faith healers.

But a certified plastic surgeon is just as much a member of the medical profession as a cally, but what the results will heart surgeon, brain surgeon or be some years later is a other specialist. He must have standard medical training, then besides posture and bearing, as specialized training, first in demonstrated by any number of surgery and then in plastic fashion models, can provide surgery. This takes some years more feminine charm than mere bulk.

His prime goal is not making people prettier. Reconstructing faces mutilated in accidents is and exceptional care and judgment. It will cost accordingly. responsibility of plastic surgery but varies depending on difficulty, and correcting cleft palates. If in doubt, ask the surgeon with which some children are And remember to find out the born. Some heart surgery is in hospital cost as well as the a very real sense plastic surgeon's fee.

Some interesting work has been done with certain criminals who were influenced by particularly distorted features, and correction of their appearance. I've been told, has in selected cases changed their outlook on life.

Correcting protruding ears has saved a good many youngsters from thoughtless ridicule. Chins that recede to a disfiguring degree can be built up. There have been cases of people, wrinkled prematurely, who have found they did much better in the business world after a "face lift." This doesn't produce perpetual youth, but it can be a valid means of not appearing to be years older than you really are.

Building up or trimming down or reshaping noses is often done, and when eliminating true disfigurement, it is a blessing—just as is the repair of the mutilated mouth of a baby who has chewed through an electric cord (I still shudder at some cases I have seen).

Where the expectation exists that plastic surgery can turn an ordinary face into a beautiful one—look out. Be realistic. I'm of two minds about surgery to build up breasts. First, the rule of beauty by tape measure is overdone these days. Materials can be inserted surgically, but what the results will be some years later is a question I'm conservative. And besides posture and bearing, as demonstrated by any number of plastic fashion models, can provide more feminine charm than mere bulk.

Bellaire Park Apartments Draw Protest

12th Ward Residents Ask Return of Area To Single Family

Rumored plans for the construction of high-rise apartments overlooking the Bellaire Park area drew protests today from two Twelfth Ward residents at a meeting of the city plan commission.

However, the commission indicated it had no authority to intervene as long as the projects were within municipal zoning and space requirements. It was the commission's collective opinion that residents in the area of Opechee and Leminwah streets, where the development is reportedly to take place, were involved in a civil matter.

Rezoned in 1961
City records show that in 1961 Bruce Purdy petitioned the council to have the land rezoned from single to multiple family, and the request was subsequently approved.

In 1963 Purdy reportedly changed his mind about building a four-to-six unit apartment building and sold the undeveloped property to Clarence Kramlich who had plans for erecting cooperative apartments.

However, the former alderman in the ward submitted a request in 1963 to have the property rezoned back to single family. No action was taken by the city.

Residents claim they were told when they originally agreed to the rezoning that the owners would include a deed incumbrance stating what type of building would be constructed.

However, today they informed the commission that there is

Nelson Won't Take Public Stand for Either Lucey, Carley

Expects Bruising Battle as Two Clash for Democratic Nomination

BY DAVE NOWAK

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Sen. Gaylord Nelson (D-Wis.) said Sunday he "won't take a public stand for either Lt. Gov. Patrick Lucey or David Carley, contestants for the Democratic nomination for governor.

Nelson, who spent the afternoon watching the Packer-Ram football game and chatting with Democrats at the James Dana home, 1015 Jardin St., Appleton, did "not wish to indicate any preference" in what is expected to be a bruising battle for the nomination.

Carley was director of state Department of Resource development during Nelson's governorship.

NEW LONDON—An autopsy was to be performed today on Theodore C. Guyette, 52, 327 E. Wolf River Ave., who died of unknown causes Sunday.

City police said they were called to Wisconsin Street about 9:45 a.m. Sunday when a resident found Guyette lying in the street.

He was taken to Community Hospital by a squad car and died about 4:30 p.m.

Funeral arrangements are pending at the Kircher Funeral Home.

Both Drivers Found Negligent in Mishap Case

A six-man Outagamie County Circuit Court jury has found both drivers named in a damages suit equally negligent in causing a traffic accident Jan. 8.

Named in the suit were People's Laundry and Ayr-Mor Dry Cleaners, 633 W. Wisconsin Ave., which was seeking damages from Dale Krueger, 1324 W. Harris St., and his insurance carrier, American Standard Insurance Co.

The circuit court action followed an accident Jan. 8 which involved Carl J. Blechovde, driver for the dry cleaning firm, and Krueger. The accident occurred on Foster Street.

Although the jury ruled that People's Laundry and Ayr-Mor Dry Cleaners should receive $1,017 for damages to the truck and $275 for loss of use of the truck, since the jury also found Krueger and Blechovde each 50 per cent negligent in causing the accident, legal effect of the ruling now is up to Circuit Judge Andrew W. Parnell.

Firm Applies for Franchise For Closed Circuit TV System

See-Bee Construction Seeks 20-Year Contract in Appleton

See-Bee Construction Co., subscribers for the closed circuit service.

See-Bee Construction is proposing for residential subscribers a maximum connection charge of $25, monthly service charge of $5 for one television set and a $125 charge for each additional TV set in the same building.

Rates for commercial subscribers were not listed in the proposed ordinance which said they would be set by the company, subject to ratification of the city council.

Under terms of the proposition, See-Bee Construction would post a $10,000 performance bond to commence construction of the closed circuit system within license by the council.

Backers Unknown
Block could not be reached to elaborate on the plans of See-Bee Construction or to identify its financial backers. However, he was expected back in the city Tuesday.

"This ordinance is enclosed for your study and recommendations," Block wrote city officials.

He said after the matter was referred to the appropriate council committee, the group proposing the closed circuit system would want to meet with city officials.

Block said the corporation would appreciate it if the council would adopt the proposed ordinance attached to his letter.

Other Overtures
Several other overtures for community TV rights have been made in cities throughout the Fox Valley and northern Wisconsin. In some instances the firms have been successful in obtaining franchises through the local council.

See-Bee Construction is seeking a 20-year franchise to have exclusive right to provide Appleton with closed circuit TV.

The poles used for the proposed TV distribution system will be those of the Wisconsin Telephone Co., Wisconsin Public Service Co. or the Appleton public utilities, the request said.

All installations would be made according to municipal engineering standards, it added.

Enthusiastic Audience Grets First Musical Program at Xavier

A large and enthusiastic audience enjoyed the first musical program of the Xavier High School year. In a fast moving program the mixed chorus and bands provided a variety of music that was obviously enjoyed by performers and audience alike.

The concert band, featured first on the program, is the largest band in Xavier's short history. In spite of the size, they were impressive with their precision and interpretation on Bartok's Four Pieces for Band.

The mixed chorus under their new director Zi Hyung Sa was very well received. Mrs. Sa, accompanist for the chorus, received a warm round of applause when she was asked to take a bow.

The prep band, stage band and wind ensemble rounded off the program. Il Signor Buschini, and The Kingston Trio Folk Song Overture were obviously the highlights of this part of the concert.

LU Professor Explains

China's Big Problem Is Development Into State

A Lawrence University government professor Thursday said "China's central problem in modern history concerns her development into a modern nationalistic state."

Dr. Chong-Do Hah spoke on "Nationalism in Modern China" at the third in a series of convocations on the Far East at Holy Family College, Manitowish.

Hah said that as early as 221 B. C. China was unified as an empire, not in terms of a national state but as a cohesion of cultural, ethical and social elements. Traditionally, China was considered as the Middle Kingdom of the universe, the center of true culture, and a unique power in a world of barbarians, Hah noted. He said such concepts could be maintained for a number of reasons, the two major factors being the selective civil service exams; and the principles of Confucianism, which made it possible to preserve an ideological bureaucracy.

Chinese Failure

Hah said that with the onslaught of foreign powers in the late 18th century, the Chinese failure to cope with the Western ideal of equality among sovereign states in terms of foreign relations led to an inevitable conflict with the Western Powers.

He said the British defeat of China in the Opium War in 1842 was significant. A basic cause of the war was the unwillingness of the Chinese to grant the British equal status in their dealings with the Chinese, Hah explained.

indication Kramlich intends to sell the property to a developer with plans to construct a possible four-story apartment complex with an estimated 20 or more living units.

They contended this would lower property values in the residential neighborhood and create a heavy traffic problem.

The commission told the objectors the property owner who intends to sell (Kramlich) would have to instigate rezoning back to single family.

However, it was indicated Kramlich was approached by neighbors and would not agree to any rezoning and intended to sell the property for apartments.

"We wanted to cooperate originally and signed the petition with the understanding everything would be included in the deed," one resident told the commission. "Apparently we have been deceived."

Lena Man Shot in His Legs by Son

Post-Crescent News Service
LENA — Joseph Rose, 49, route 1, was reported improving today at St. Vincent Hospital where he was taken in critical condition Sunday night from wounds in the legs inflicted by a 12-gauge shotgun apparently fired by his son, James M. Rose, 22.

The son is being held in the county jail at Oconto as the sheriff's department continues its investigation.

According to Undersheriff Ray Bishop, who arrested Rose at the Rose home at about 8:25 p.m. Sunday, the incident took place between 7 and 7:30 after he came home and demanded the keys to the family car.

Bishop said the younger Rose told him that he had been drinking at a wedding party and was given a ride home. The undersheriff quoted young Rose as saying that after Mrs. Rose refused to give her son the keys, he grabbed a 12-gauge shotgun and lined the family up against the kitchen wall.

Stand Against Wall

The father had been sleeping on the sofa, Bishop said, but was also ordered to stand against the wall.

Bishop said the young Rose, in addition to admitting firing the shot that wounded his father, also said that he fired once out the front door and once out the back door.

The young Rose showed signs of having been drinking heavily, Bishop said. Rose had been an attendant at a wedding in Lena Saturday and returned Sunday afternoon for opening of the wedding presents, Bishop added.

Aims Outlined

The May 4 movement of 1919 had two aims, according to Hah: expel imperialists and regain Chinese superiority.

Through hoped-for equality with the Western powers there seemed the best insurance of security, he said. Protest movements characterized the social change.

Russians Boast Of New Missile

MOSCOW (AP) — Nuclear warhead missiles capable of maneuvering on trajectory, apparently to avoid interception, are being developed by the Soviet Union, a Soviet rocketeer claimed in Moscow on Saturday.

Col. Gen. Vladimir Tolubko, first deputy commander in chief of Soviet strategic rocket forces, also said in an interview with the Tass news agency that Soviet rockets can hit any target on the first shot.

Egg-Thrower Missed Target, So Court Goes Easy on Girl

ROME (AP) — The case of the eggs hurled at Congolese ex-Premier Moise Tshombe on the Via Veneto last year got a bit scrambled for a while. Police seized a three-egg arsenal from Laura's handbag which, they said they contributed to some nearby riots.

AHS Anti-Litter Drive Held by Student Council

An anti-litter campaign was conducted last week at Appleton High School by the student council. Posters, announcements, and club and class activities were used to promote the project.

All litter on the school grounds and surrounding areas was picked up by members of school clubs on Wednesday. The council awarded a $10 prize to the Russian Club for having the highest percentage of members participating in the cleanup. All trash collected was heaped into a large box and displayed in the main hall on Thursday.

During the second hour classes on Thursday, original slogans, were created and designed on large sheets of paper which were posted in the main hall.

Daily announcements were made and waste containers placed throughout the school grounds to remind students.

The Student Council committee which conducted the campaign was headed by Betsy Freschl. Committee members were Jan Giese, Scott Schultz, and Dale Schinke.

Civil Rights Scene Returns to Selma With March Today

Workers Continue Drive for Federal Action on Violence

SELMA, Ala. (AP) — A civil rights campaign organized to bring about new federal legislation, has returned to Selma — the center of an earlier drive that led to the 1965 voting rights law.

A march was planned today in Selma as part of the move to get congressional action covering crimes of violence against civil rights workers following four racially related slayings in Alabama this year.

"It was unanimously agreed to start demonstrations again," said the Rev. P. H. Lewis, a Selma Negro leader. Several hundred Negroes voted to join the drive at a mass meeting Sunday night.

Others Planned

Demonstrations also were scheduled today at Greenville, and at Eutaw, the small town where the new campaign began last Wednesday.

In Montgomery, a federal court hearing was set on a suit by Greenville Negroes seeking an order barring police interference with marches and requiring protection for demonstrators.

Reeb Slaying

A Negro boycott of white businesses in the Selma area has begun, the Rev. Mr. Lewis said. The purpose of new activity is "to have equal justice," he said.

Trials are scheduled in mid-December for three white men indicted for murder in the bludgeoning slaying last March of the Rev. James Reeb, a white Unitarian minister from Boston. Reeb was clubbed to the pavement here after taking part in a civil rights march.

In neighboring Lowndes County, juries recently acquitted two white men, one a Ku Klux Klansman, in separate murder trials for the slaying of white civil rights workers.

At Greenville, Negro leaders called for a boycott of the Negro school, and at Eutaw parents were urged to keep their children out of class.

Canadian Girl, Swedes Saved

Three Amateur Explorers Plunge To Death in Italy

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Two Swedes and a Canadian girl were saved in underground rescues in Sweden and Britain over the weekend, while three Italians fell to their death in a cave.

The two Swedes — electrician Soeren Jansson, 26, and engineer Kjell Nilsson, 30 — were in good condition when they emerged from a flooded tunnel in which they spent more than 107 hours 142 feet below a busy Stockholm street.

The construction workers had been trapped by water and mud last Tuesday, but "we never lost hope," Nilsson told newsmen.

Rescue workers drilled a hole to them and used it to send food and communicate. The first note from the men said: "Everything all right but send us some grub."

Frogmen to Rescue

While the nation followed the story over radio and television, navy frogmen aided by powerful pumps worked through mud inch by inch. The trapped men sang and played cards as they waited. Using a microphone lowered to them, Jansson spoke to his wife and Nilsson to his girl friend.

Thousands cheered when they were brought out. The two were taken to a hospital for a check-up.

In Peak Forest, England, Donna Carr, 23, of Calgary, Alta., was rescued from a flooded cave after she fell 40 feet Saturday night while exploring a cavern.

Rescuers struggled for 20 hours in freezing weather, carrying the semiconscious student more than a mile strapped to a stretcher. They slogged through water and mud in cramped, winding passageways back to the surface.

Donna was rushed to a Sheffield hospital. It was feared she suffered slight skull and leg fractures. The hospital said she was "ill, but improving."

"She is now fully conscious and reasonably cheerful," said Dr. Hugh Kidd, who led the rescue operation and attended her.

Near Trieste, three amateur cave explorers fell 150 feet to their deaths while climbing out of a grotto.

Police said Virgilio Eristi, 28, Bruno Boschi, 23, and Valentino Brunale, 23, were thrown off balance and fell when one side of their rope ladder apparently came apart.

Elimination of Reserves Not in Accord With Congress' Intent

Rivers Says Thorough Study Planned on McNamara's Order

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. L. Mendel Rivers says the Defense Department's immediate elimination of 751 Army Reserve units "probably is legal, but it isn't the intent of Congress."

Rivers, chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, was reached Sunday night at his home in Charleston, S.C., following Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara's announcement of the cutback.

The McNamara action affects 55,000 men in more than a dozen states, including Rivers' own South Carolina.

"Very Disturbing"

It came despite a request by the Senate Armed Services Committee that the secretary delay any such action until next March.

Most members of that committee couldn't be reached, but one, Republican Margaret Chase Smith, said at her home in Skowhegan, Maine, that the decision was "very disturbing."

She said, however, that she had been traveling over the weekend, and hadn't had time to analyze the full McNamara statement issued Saturday night.

"Through Going-Over"

Rivers, who feuded with McNamara earlier this year over Defense Department plans to merge the Reserve into the National Guard, said his committee will examine the elimination and all laws regarding the reserves when Congress reconvenes in January.

"We're going to find out exactly what the situation is," he said.

quickly additional trained manpower for units which are required by our contingency war plans and will enable them to increase combat readiness at the earliest possible date. In addition, the need to recruit men from civilian life will be less than would be the case if the existing structure were utilized."

The men in the disbanded units have the option of switching to a priority reserve reinforcement pool where they would have no unit connection.

The elimination hits hardest at six divisions — the 63rd of California, the 77th of New York, the 90th of Texas, the 83rd of Ohio-West Virginia, the 102nd of Missouri-Illinois and the 81st of Georgia-North Carolina-South Carolina-Tennessee. These outfits include some 42,000 men.

The Pentagon said McNamara, Deputy Secretary of Defense Cyrus R. Vance, Secretary of the Army Stanley R. Resor and Gen. Harold K. Johnson, Army chief of staff, "carefully considered the resolution of the Senate Armed Services Committee."

"Additional Manpower"

"They decided that the immediate inactivation of these units, which are not required by contingency war plans, is essential. The inactivation of the unneeded units will make available

Sealift of Refugees Continues

Fidel Blames U. S. for Strafing Raid on Havana Waterfront

HAVANA, Cuba (AP) — Prime Minister Fidel Castro has blamed the United States for a hit-and-run attack by two boats on a residential section of the Havana waterfront. One woman was reported injured slightly.

The U.S. government began a sealift of refugees from Matanzas, Cuba. The chartered excursion boat Skipper K brought 108 Cubans to Key West, Fla., Saturday night and 94 others Sunday.

The State Department had no comment on Castro's charge of U.S. responsibility for the strafing attack early Sunday. Cuban exile sources in Miami said it was the work of RECE, the Cuban Representation in Exile, and that the two boats returned safely to their base "somewhere in the Caribbean."

The Communist paper Granma said Rosa Reyes Almaguer was hit in the left foot by a 50-caliber machine gun bullet while she was asleep in her apartment building. No other casualties were reported.

Intended for President

Castro, in a nationally televised speech, said gunfire from one of the boats was intended to hit the waterfront residence of President Osvaldo Dorticos but hit the nearby National Aquarium instead. The paper said Dorticos was at home at the time.

Waving his arms, Castro said: "Whom can we make responsible for these stupidities except the government of the United States, whom can we blame except the CIA which has sponsored all types of stupidities against this country?"

Castro said that a few minutes before the attack near Dorticos' residence, the other boat strafed Malecon Drive near the downtown area, firing briefly into apartment buildings behind Maceo Park.

Granma said the attackers used 20mm cannon and automatic rifles as well as 50-caliber machine guns. Dorticos was the main target and the other attack was a diversionary action, Granma added.

Castro called the attack "a work of desperation" by "our enemies who are suffering defeat after defeat in every field."

He said one such defeat was his announcement opening the doors to anyone who wanted to leave Cuba for the United States.

Major Storm Hits Pacific Coast Sunday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The first major storm of the rainy season hit California with gale-lashed winds and inclement weather swept down the Pacific Coast.

Gale warnings were posted for the California coast from Fort Bragg northward and small craft warnings were in effect on the rest of the California coast to Mexico.

Scores of accidents snarled traffic on southern California streets and freeways Sunday as the winds whipped heavy rains. Many athletic events were postponed. Power failures blacked out parts of West Los Angeles and Bloomington. Street lights failed in San Bernardino from short circuits.

The Coast Guard reported an unidentified yachtman drowned in heavy Pacific seas south of Monterey Saturday night in a collision of his sailboat and a California state research vessel, the Alaska.

Five men were rescued Saturday as their cabin cruiser smashed at the base of sheer ocean cliffs at Point Reyes north of San Francisco. Two other men abandoned a sailboat in heavy seas off San Simeon Sunday and were rescued.

Three San Francisco teenagers died Saturday night when their car smashed into a freeway abutment during heavy rains.

Rain, with snow in the mountains, extended inland to the intermountain region and the northern Rockies.

Strong winds whistled through the mountain passes of the West. Rawlins in south central Wyoming reported wind gusts up to 62 miles per hour.

A storm packing winds up to 92 miles per hour lashed the shore of Norton Sound in western Alaska Sunday and forced the evacuation of the Eskimo village of Unalakleet, 400 miles northwest of Anchorage.

Belgium's Elisabeth Is Worsening

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — The condition of 89-year-old dowager Queen Elisabeth of Belgium has deteriorated further, her doctors said today.

The doctors had reported an improvement in the queen's circulatory system last Thursday. But a bulletin issued today said: "The rather important fluctuations in the evolution of the illness leave a certain uncertainty."

The queen suffered a serious heart attack 11 days ago.

Baudouin's brother, Prince Albert, and Princess Paola, his wife, arrived today. The king's father, Leopold, was returning from a private trip in Latin America.

Eagles Snap Redskins' Victory Streak, 21-14

Pete Retzlaff Catches 7 Passes For 204-Yard Total

By RALPH BEHNSTEIN PHILADELPHIA (AP) — "You don't look ready for retirement, Pete," someone said to Pete Retzlaff after the tight end of the Philadelphia Eagles had caught seven passes for 204 yards in Sunday's victory over the Washington Redskins.

"I will about 10 o'clock tonight," retorted Retzlaff as he towed his tired body in the Philadelphia locker room.

The 33-year-old Retzlaff, who caught seven for 151 yards last week against Cleveland, has earned the old used adjective "sensational." This despite the fact he is suffering from torn cartilage in his right ribs and a bruise to the "aging end, old sore right heel."

Did Everything "We did everything we could, a humanly do to stop him (Retzlaff)," said Bill McPeak, Redskins' coach after the 21-14 game before 60,000 at Franklin Field.

"We double and triple teamed Retzlaff," McPeak said. "The guy worked his way open regardless of what we did. We even went to what in effect was a three man line, dropping off a lineman to form a funnel down the lane where Retzlaff normally runs his patterns."

There has been much written and spoken about impending retirement for Retzlaff, and he admits it is a possibility. He adds, however, that it won't be before he is convinced he can't produce in the style Eagles' fans have been accustomed to.

"The minute I can't produce, I'll quit. I won't hang on," said Retzlaff.

How will he know when it's time? "When I'm hurt more. When the defensive backs can recover and keep me from the ball after I've beaten them," said the handsome 214-pounder.

Got Caught It's hard to say a guy is slowing up with the most recent performances of Retzlaff, but he did get caught from behind by the Redskins' Paul Krause in the fourth period. Quarterback Norm Snead, who kicked his old teammates for the first time in four tries since being traded to Philadelphia for Sonny Jurgensen, combined with Retzlaff on a 78-yard pass play to the Washington Redskins' seven-yard line. Krause dragged down the Eagles' end. This set up the winning TD.

Snead scored on fourth down and a 100 to go by fullback Earl Gros. "I shifted gears twice," said Snead of the dash down the field. "But I couldn't find the road gear, maybe I don't have it anymore. After all, in pre-season stories all I read were references to the 'aging end, old sore right heel.'"

It's a wonder I didn't bring a rocking chair to practice."

The Eagles scored first for a 74 first period lead when Snead scored on a one-yard sneak after passing 33 yards to Retzlaff for a first down at the one. Jurgensen passed five for the tying TD in the second period, and 25 to end Pat Richter to take a 14-7 third period advantage.

Snead's passes carried the Eagles 75 yards for the tying score from the two by halfback Tim Brown.

Completes 21 of 28 Snead completed 21 of 28 passes for 31 yards. Jurgensen connected on 16 of 29 for 177. Counting two Sunday, Jurgensen has flipped 10 TD passes against his old mates.

The Eagles snapped a four game losing streak and now are 3-6, the same as Washington which had won three in a row.

While the last-place Bruins rallied around their rookie goaltender, New York checked Hull's scoring spree and whipped Chicago 4-2 and Montreal stopped Howe short of his mark in a 2-2 tie with Detroit.

Hull, who had scored 12 goals in Chicago's first eight games, failed to connect against the Rangers, who built a 3-1 first-period edge and held on to protect their third-place standing.

Howe, one goal short of the 600 mark in his 20th NHL season, was blanked at Detroit but teammate Norm Ullman scored twice to pull the Wings even against Montreal.

Cuzzo's Five TD Passes Lead Colts To Win Over Vikes

Baltimore Retains 1-Game Lead As Orr, Moore Score Twice

BY LEW FERGUSON MINNEAPOLIS - ST. PAUL — "Scholarly, articulate down pass to Jimmy Orr, giving Gary Cuzzo passed up a career as a medical doctor to play professional football."

Sunday, he operated on the Minnesota Vikings for five touchdowns passes as the Baltimore Colts swept to their seventh straight National Football League victory, 41-21, and held their Western Conference lead over Green Bay.

Cuzzo's passing was as incisive as a surgeon's scalpel, but instead of the decorum of the operating room, he performed with 47,428 Metropolitan Stadium fans yelling and massive linemen chasing him.

If anyone had a reason to be nervous, it was the former Phi Beta Kappa from the University of Virginia.

Fills Unitas' Shoes He stepped into the shoes of Johnny Unitas, the Colts' great quarterback who was waiting on the sidelines with a sore back tightly strapped — in case Cuzzo's passing was as incisive as a surgeon's scalpel, but instead of the decorum of the operating room, he performed with 47,428 Metropolitan Stadium fans yelling and massive linemen chasing him.

To add to the drama, the Vikings held the Colts to a minus four yards in six offensive plays the first two times Baltimore had the ball. At the same time, Minnesota was controlling the ball for 30 plays and accumulated 145 yards. For all of that, however, the Vikings had scored only once.

Cuzzo never flinched, and placed the Vikings to a second-place tie with Green Bay in the Western Division.

"I didn't get nervous," Cuzzo said, "and don't know why I should have."

"I wasn't tempted to use Unitas," Shula said. "Even if I had decision, it would only have been for one series on a certain situation."

Green Bay's Rushing Attack Pleases Vince; Entire Defense Lauded

Used 'Brat' for Lift

BY LEE REMMEL MILWAUKEE — Although a dedicated perfectionist, Vince Lombardi is, above all things, an eminently practical realist.

Lombardi is, above all things, an eminently practical realist. He asked, in the wake of Sunday's 6-3 "pitchers' duel" with the hunking Los Angeles Rams in County Stadium, if he had seen "any other game in which neither team scored a touchdown," flashed a broad smile and countered, "about five or seven of 'em."

"Before I'm finished coaching," he added with philosophical aplomb, "there'll be a few more, I'm sure."

Lombardi, who earlier had announced, "certainly, I'm happy with the victory," took obvious pleasure in another salary development. "For the first time in three or four weeks, our running game looked like it was coming," he declared. "And Taylor (Jim) ran better than he has all season."

"So even the blackest days have a little light," he chuckled, appending in an aside to a Los Angeles scribe, "eh, Bob Oates?"

Why had he supplanted Bart Starr at quarterback with Zeke Bratkowski? "I thought it would give us a little lift," Vince replied. "The other boy hadn't been able to get us moving."

"Yes," he agreed in response to another question, "Bratkowski did a good job of moving the team. . . he did very well."

Chandler's Two Field Goals Give Packers 6-3 Victory

Aldridge's Fumble Recovery Sets Up Don's Winning Kick With Less Than One Minute to Play

BY ART DALEY PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Packers' offense may be out in left field, but at the moment, that is — but the Packers defense sure knows. Lions, and Bears (each with 5-what to do in County Stadium's 41). The Packers now play the short left field.

There is this space behind the left side of the baseball infield, and perhaps it should be hallowed Green Bay ground. The Colts got down to the spot — around the 20-yard line — and they were on their way to trying or beating the Pack in the waning seconds Sept. 26, Tom Matte fumbled and Herb Adderley recovered to save a 20-17 victory.

The Packers and the Rams standings today. The Packers, with 7-2 are one game behind the leading Colts (8-1) and two — at the moment, that is — but the Packers defense sure knows. Lions, and Bears (each with 5-what to do in County Stadium's 41). The Packers now play the short left field.

The Packers defense was superb, and the Rams never got beyond the 50 from midway in the second quarter to the end. The Packers recovered three fumbles (by Dave Robinson, Willie Davis and Aldridge) and intercepted one pass — by Doug Hart to kill off the Rams' last hope.

The Rams had the ball 12 times and reached Packer territory just three times — the first on Tom Moore's fumble on the third play of the game and the other two times in the second quarter.

Misses Twice In each case, Bruce Gossett tried field goals. He hit the first (after Moore's fumble) from 35 yards and then missed from 42 and 35 yards in the second period.

The Packers allowed the Rams 116 yards rushing (60 by Les Josephson) but they all but eliminated the Ram air attack with 26 yards. The defense hurled Bill Munson five times for 43 yards.

The big defensive play was Ron Kostelnik's tackle off Munson that forced the fumble the Packers turned into the winning field goal. Kostelnik went in untouched and shook the ball out of Munson's hand by Turn to Page 6, Col. 3

Kicks Field Goal Six plays later — from the 7-yard line (the line of scrimmage was on the two-inch line), Don Chandler kicked the field goal that gave Green Bay a 6 to 3 victory.

Chandler must rank as a special hero in Milwaukee. He has kicked two field goals in each of the three league games here. His boots were the difference in the Colt game; the two in the Cowboy game were enough to win that 13-3 struggle; and besides the winning boot vs. the Rams he kicked a 22-yarder to tie the game in the first quarter.

Sixty to three or six to three — it all looked the same in the Philadelphia locker room.

The 33-year-old Retzlaff, who caught seven for 151 yards last week against Cleveland, has earned the old used adjective "sensational." This despite the fact he is suffering from torn cartilage in his right ribs and a bruise to the "aging end, old sore right heel."

Did Everything "We did everything we could, a humanly do to stop him (Retzlaff)," said Bill McPeak, Redskins' coach after the 21-14 game before 60,000 at Franklin Field.

"We double and triple teamed Retzlaff," McPeak said. "The guy worked his way open regardless of what we did. We even went to what in effect was a three man line, dropping off a lineman to form a funnel down the lane where Retzlaff normally runs his patterns."

There has been much written and spoken about impending retirement for Retzlaff, and he admits it is a possibility. He adds, however, that it won't be before he is convinced he can't produce in the style Eagles' fans have been accustomed to.

"The minute I can't produce, I'll quit. I won't hang on," said Retzlaff.

How will he know when it's time? "When I'm hurt more. When the defensive backs can recover and keep me from the ball after I've beaten them," said the handsome 214-pounder.

Got Caught It's hard to say a guy is slowing up with the most recent performances of Retzlaff, but he did get caught from behind by the Redskins' Paul Krause in the fourth period. Quarterback Norm Snead, who kicked his old teammates for the first time in four tries since being traded to Philadelphia for Sonny Jurgensen, combined with Retzlaff on a 78-yard pass play to the Washington Redskins' seven-yard line. Krause dragged down the Eagles' end. This set up the winning TD.

Snead scored on fourth down and a 100 to go by fullback Earl Gros. "I shifted gears twice," said Snead of the dash down the field. "But I couldn't find the road gear, maybe I don't have it anymore. After all, in pre-season stories all I read were references to the 'aging end, old sore right heel.'"

It's a wonder I didn't bring a rocking chair to practice."

The Eagles scored first for a 74 first period lead when Snead scored on a one-yard sneak after passing 33 yards to Retzlaff for a first down at the one. Jurgensen passed five for the tying TD in the second period, and 25 to end Pat Richter to take a 14-7 third period advantage.

Snead's passes carried the Eagles 75 yards for the tying score from the two by halfback Tim Brown.

Completes 21 of 28 Snead completed 21 of 28 passes for 31 yards. Jurgensen connected on 16 of 29 for 177. Counting two Sunday, Jurgensen has flipped 10 TD passes against his old mates.

The Eagles snapped a four game losing streak and now are 3-6, the same as Washington which had won three in a row.

While the last-place Bruins rallied around their rookie goaltender, New York checked Hull's scoring spree and whipped Chicago 4-2 and Montreal stopped Howe short of his mark in a 2-2 tie with Detroit.

Hull, who had scored 12 goals in Chicago's first eight games, failed to connect against the Rangers, who built a 3-1 first-period edge and held on to protect their third-place standing.

Howe, one goal short of the 600 mark in his 20th NHL season, was blanked at Detroit but teammate Norm Ullman scored twice to pull the Wings even against Montreal.

Harry Walker's Father Succumbs in Alabama BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Ewart (Dixie) Walker, father of Pittsburgh Pirates' Manager Harry Walker, died in a suburban hospital here Sunday. He was 77.

Walker, one of the first Alabama baseball players to make the major leagues, was a right-handed pitcher for the Washington Senators from 1909 to 1912.

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Kentucky quarterback Rick Norton underwent a 2½-hour operation Sunday night to repair a torn ligament in the football star's right knee.
Norton was injured Saturday night in the Wildcats' loss at Houston. He left the game with 10 minutes remaining in the final period and walked from the stadium with the aid of crutch.

Dr. O. B. Murphy, team physician who performed the operation called it a success. Murphy declined to comment on what effect the operation would have on Norton's professional career.

49ers Weather Detroit Rally For 27-21 Win

Defense Accounts For Pair of TDs For San Francisco

By BERNIE KENNEDY
DETROIT (AP) — Detroit Lions quarterback Milt Plum performed well in his new role as 'fireman' quarterback Sunday but couldn't cope with a fired-up San Francisco defense which grew tired of being blamed for the team's failures.

Plum directed three second half scoring drives and had the Lions on as far as the 49ers' 13-yard line with less than a minute remaining. But a fourth-down pass into the end zone fell incomplete and the 49ers held on to win 27-21.

It was their first victory in four starts despite the fact that they scored more than 100 points in their last three games.

Replaces Izo
Plum coming in for George Izo midway through the second quarter got the Lions rolling after they left the field at half time trailing 20-0.

San Francisco Coach Jack Christensen savoring his first victory in five tries against his former team gave full credit to his defense.

'They came up with two big touchdowns on runs with recovered fumbles and kept Detroit's offense off balance most of the way,' he said. Then taking a look at the statistics — which showed the 49ers gaining 127 yards on the ground to 89 for the Lions — he added:

'We've heard a lot about good defensive lines but I think we proved today that we could run against anybody.'

Rookie Ken Willard equalled the entire Detroit output in 15 carries in leading all rushers.

Half of the 49ers' first half points came in a 42 second span in the first quarter.

31-Yard Field Goal
Tommy Davis kicked a 31-yard field goal and Dave Wilson picked up a Tommy Watkins fumble on the Lions' first play from scrimmage and ran it eight yards for the touchdown.

A 12-yard field goal by Davis and a seven-yard pass from John Brodie to Dave Parks gave the 49ers 10 more points in the second quarter.

Lions Coach Harry Gilmer was downcast after the game.

'I'm not taking anything away from the 49ers but it took two cheap touchdowns to beat us,' he said. The 49ers had control of the ball most of the way and they played a good game.

He added that he made the switch to Plum when it became apparent Izo wasn't moving the team. He said he'd study the game films before making a decision on a starting quarterback for next week.

The Packers' Jim Taylor (31) gains 27 yards on a pass from Bart Starr in Sunday's National Football League game against the Rams in Milwaukee. Jerry Kramer (64) provides some interference.

Packers Give Game Ball to Lionel Aldridge

He breathed in smiles a few feet to the left of the Davis. The Bayou Bronco, obviously delighted over the discovery he could once again run with his former authority after shaking off a nagging heel injury, reported, "My head and shoulders were past the post."

Taylor, who had reference to that third down stab in the final minute of play, appended, "The rule says the ball has to break the plane (an invisible line running from the crossbar to the ground), and I think I hit the post with my back and slid inside. I know I was across the goal line."

Inclined to be magnanimous since the matter was now happily academic, the multi-muscled linebacker pointed, "But they (the officials) were right on the play and they made the decision."

Tossing a bouquet in the direction of the offensive line, much-maligned of late by some of the faithful, "We came off the ball real well," Taylor said. "We had good, solid blocking."

"I don't know if the statistics will show it," he summed up with a slightly apologetic smile. "But we did a lot better on the ground today than we have been doing."

Offensive Capt. Bob Skoronski happily concurred. "I think our running game was better than it has been — and that was our objective today."

It hadn't been easy, he added, fervently. "They're a tough football team and that's a great defensive, believe me. I'd much rather work our running game against some other front four."

Skoronski said dryly, "We hope this is the one that gets us over the hill."

Don Chandler, author of that all-important field goal in the waning seconds, said the angle on the short-range stab had been no problem. The ball was just off the post, he replied with a smile, "not from that distance if it had been out there, I might have been a little worried."

Soft spoken Zeke Bratkowski, who had driven the Pack to the one-inch line in the wake of the Kostelnik-Aldridge collaboration to set the stage for Chandler's climactic kick, pointed out, "The closer it is the better it is, so we tried to keep in the middle."

Had he been surprised when summoned to replace Bart Starr at quarterback late in the third quarter? No, as I said after we beat the Colts down here earlier in the season (Brat came off the bench to pitch a winning touchdown to Max McGee). I just come every week ready to play. I have to — I can't let myself get down. It would hurt me and it would hurt the team."

Bart and I have a unique situation. We just help each other — no matter who's in there. Winning is the important thing."

Starr, one of sport's greatest gentlemen, expressed similar sentiments when asked if he had been unhappy over being relieved. "I didn't feel bad at all," he smiled. "We're out to

Branch Rickey Still in Coma

Stricken While Being Inducted Into Missouri Fame Hall

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Branch Rickey, 84-year-old baseball great who collapsed at the speaker's rostrum Saturday night, remained in a coma today in the intensive care section of the Boone County Hospital. "He is holding his own but still in a critical condition," a hospital spokesman said. He was being administered oxygen by nasal catheter.

Rickey, a veteran of nearly half a century in the major leagues, was stricken with a heart attack while accepting membership in the Missouri Sports Hall of Fame in ceremonies in Columbia. "I'm going to tell you a story from the Bible about spiritual courage," he told the audience. At that moment he said he couldn't go on, sank to a chair and collapsed onto the floor. A resuscitator was rushed to the scene and Rickey was taken to the hospital.

He had left a hospital bed in St. Louis Saturday to attend the ceremonies. He had been hospitalized in St. Louis for 16 days for an ailment, not fully diagnosed, which had raised his temperature to 105. Rickey had had two previous heart attacks, one at Pittsburgh in 1958 and the other at his summer home in Sudbury, Ont., in 1961.

Interceptions Key to Dallas' 24-17 Victory

Cowboys Pick Off 5 Steeler Aerials in Final Quarter

DALLAS (AP) — he offense tried to fumble the game away but the defense wouldn't let them. So the Dallas Cowboys beat Pittsburgh 24-17 Sunday to make it two straight, after dropping five in a row, and have climbed into a tie for third in the Eastern Conference of the National Football League.

The Cowboys are playing it loose and easy and winning ball games with breaks that used to go against them. The Cowboys intercepted five passes in the last quarter Sunday and two of them were turned to touchdowns to beat the Steelers, who licked them 22-13 the last time they played.

The pass interceptions wiped out some untimely fumbling by offensive stars Bob Hayes and Don Meredith. Hayes fumbled a punt and Lee Folkins, showing off against his former teammates, ran 18 yards for a touchdown with it to put the Steelers ahead 17-10.

But Cornell Green of Dallas intercepted a pass that set up Sunday in the only league action another touchdown to tie the score. After Mel Renfro intercepted another pass to put Dallas in a position to score again, Meredith, the Cowboys' quarterback, fumbled to Pittsburgh on the Dallas 29. Hokes were sunk, but Overt Logan intercepted a pass that got Meredith off the hook.

Later Dave Edwards intercepted a pass on the Pittsburgh 31 and Meredith and Hayes made up for their shortcomings. Meredith lofted a pass to Hayes for 28 yards and the winning touchdown. Meredith passed for 245 yards and two touchdowns and his passing set up all three touchdowns and a field goal.

Typical Teen Spending Difficult to Determine

BY SYLVIA PORTER Your youngster to keep a saving goal within reasonable limits and not to make it a prolonged drudgery.

By the end of 1965 an awesome 22 million American teen-agers will have earned received and spent this year an estimated $17 billion of their own money on goods and services ranging from comic books to cats' cosmetics to college education, banjos to banana splits.

A big chunk of this sum represents money they have earned. But record numbers also are getting record sums in allowances from their parents—and millions of U.S. families are

Charge Accounts

What about charge accounts? On this expert opinion divides violently—with one side warning it's extreme recklessness to give a teen-ager a charge account and the other arguing that since charge accounts are so much a part of American life a youngster should be permitted to buy on credit.

My compromise rule would be to teach your teen-ager to use credit modestly and wisely and to pay bills promptly. As an allowance is learning money, so installment buying is vital financial education. The crucial point is that the earlier a youngster learns to live with a fixed income, the better prepared he'll be to manage his money soundly as an adult.

These guides may seem only simple common sense—but isn't that fundamentally what proper money management always is? (Copyright 1965) now feeling an utterly unanticipated pocketbook pinch just from more and bigger allowances for their teen-age youngsters.

And this is just the beginning for the tidal wave of war babies both in the late 1940s is now roaring into the phase of big spending early adulthood. In the next five years alone our 15-19 age population will soar by 17 million. During this decade of the 1960s our teen-age group will bulge by 27 million or 40 per cent—compared with an overall 15 per cent population rise.

Growing Relentlessly

The cost of feeding, clothing and educating teen-agers is growing relentlessly and so is the cost of meeting their outside needs and wants. Constantly adding to their wants are businessmen who are courting teen-agers with an unprecedented variety of goods and services. It is no news at all that the businessman's scramble for the teen-ager's dollar has never been more frantic.

What is a typical allowance for today's teen-ager? Should a teen-ager have charge accounts?

The amount of allowance you give your teen child today depends on the same four factors outlined in Friday's column as governing a pre-teen allowance: how much the child is capable of spending responsibly, what the allowance is supposed to cover, how much other children of the same age get, and how much the family budget can stand. All of these can vary greatly but here are typical weekly allowances suggested by the Savings and Loan Foundation in Washington, based on a recent survey of more than 1,000 U.S. parents:

Age 13 $1-$3 Age 14 $2-$4 Age 15 $2-$5 Age 16 wide variation

Could Be Larger

Of course these sums would be considerably larger if your child is expected to pay for his own clothes, school supplies and other costly items—and in general, a teen-ager should be able to handle most expenses outside his home by the time he is a high school senior. In any case it's vitally important that you should have a clear understanding with your child on just what an allowance is or is not supposed to cover and to renegotiate the contract at least once a year to take new obligations into account.

What about saving? Teen-agers are notorious non-savers, tend to spend income as fast as possible and often on apparently frivolous things. But at the same time, they also are increasingly enamored by such big-ticket items as autos, record players and transistor radios. Once a teen-ager sets as a goal the expensive item as a goal, the message usually seeps through that the purchase requires saving over a long period. As a parent, you should encourage units have a total of 38 men.

Coast Guard Seeks Cause of Fire on Holiday Cruise Ship

83 Missing, Presumed Dead;
One Person Dies in Hospital

By ROBERT D. CLARK
MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Coast Guard investigators probed today into the deadly fire at sea that sent the cruise ship Yarmouth Castle to the bottom. The list of missing and presumed dead soared to 83. One person died of burns.

Yarmouth Cruises, Inc., added two more names to its roster of those who evidently failed to survive the tragedy—stewardess Phyllis Hall of Jamaica, and the ship's doctor, Lisardo Diaz Torrenz of Miami.

At Vero Beach, Fla., news editor William Jackson of the Press Journal said his wife, Louise, surely perished in the fire.

Mrs. Jackson was listed as a passenger and shared a cabin with her daughter, Ann Martin Jackson of Rochester, N.Y.

Crashes Take Ten Lives on State Highways

Green Bay Man Dies When Car Veers Off Bridge

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ten persons were killed in weekend traffic in Wisconsin and another man died of injuries received in a collision that claimed one life earlier. The series raised the state highway toll for the year to 884, compared with 948 on this day a year ago.

Ferdinand Olson, 73, of Green Bay died Sunday night of injuries received Nov. 6 when the car in which he was riding drove out onto Highway 41 near Green Bay and was struck broadside by another auto. Mrs. Grace Kimball of Chicago died in the crash.

Leonard Atkinson, 26, Wausau-kee, was killed Sunday when his car plunged off an open drawbridge in Green Bay, struck a coal freighter on the Fox River, and sank in 20 feet of water. Authorities said Atkinson's car crashed through the gate on the drawbridge after other autos had halted.

Milwaukee Death
A seven-year-old Milwaukee boy, Raymond Smith, was struck and killed by a car Sunday night while crossing a street near his home.

Richard J. Smith, 21, of rural Darlington, was hurled to his death Sunday as his car overturned along Highway 81 west of Darlington.

Bruce Nortman, 18, of rural Black River Falls, died Sunday in a Mauston hospital after his auto rolled over along Interstate 90-94 southeast of Mauston Saturday night.

Two Madison youths returning from a hunting trip, Dennis M. Thorp, 20, and Steven M. Hoene, 19, were killed Saturday night as their auto collided with a state highway patrolman's car at the intersection of highways 51 and 60 east of Arlington in Columbia County.

Struck Deer
Mrs. Charles Gatten, 66, Webster, died Saturday after her husband's car struck a deer, hurling it through the windshield on the passenger side of the auto, in an accident on Highway 35 about 40 miles south of Superior.

Three other persons died in accidents in Milwaukee suburbs in the early hours of the weekend.
Michael Radi, 17, Hartland, was struck and killed by a car in Brookfield. Gregory Emelity, 18, West Allis, died after his motorcycle and a car collided in West Allis. Mrs. Grace L. Littlefield, 65, Delavan, was killed in a two-car collision in New Berlin.

Eisenhower Past Worst Danger Period

Son, Brother Encouraged, Head Back to Homes

FT. GORDON, Ga. (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower has weathered what his son describes as the period of greatest danger after his heart attack.

Son John and younger brother, Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, were sufficiently encouraged by Eisenhower's progress to head back to their homes Sunday night after observing Mrs. Eisenhower's 69th birthday.

John would not say they no longer felt any anxiety about the condition of the five-star general, now 75.

But, he explained to newsmen, when "the second set of chest pains occurred this last Wednesday, we were advised at that time the period of greatest danger would be four or five days from that point on."

"That time period has ended," John added. And, said the two Eisenhowers, the reports from physicians have been encouraging.

"He seems to me to be really in excellent condition," said Milton Eisenhower, who observed that Ike "seems to me ever so much better" than he was at the same period after his 1955 heart attack in Denver.

He feels good enough, they said, to read "one Western story after another," and has had a record player installed so he can listen to music.

Africa Commonwealth Nations Back Britain

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Commonwealth Secretary-General Arnold Smith told newsmen here none of the nine African-ruled members of the Commonwealth has threatened to withdraw in protest over Britain's decision not to use armed force in white minority-ruled Rhodesia.

Still Has Pain

President Johnson Back in Capital

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, looking well after a recuperative stay of more than three weeks at his Texas ranch, is back at the White House today and plans to stay there at least until Thursday. But despite a favorable medical report over the weekend, Johnson has told friends he still doesn't feel as well as he did before his Oct. 8 gall bladder-kidney stone operation and has some pain from the operation. In the final day of his Texas

U.S. Planes, Infantry Hit North Vietnamese

Communists Reportedly Suffer Heavy Casualties In Battle Near Cambodia

IA DRANG VALLEY, South Viet Nam (AP) — B52 bombers pounded rear positions of a North Vietnamese regiment today as two American infantry battalions continued to slug it out with the Communist enemy in heavy fighting near the Cambodian border.

Two battalions of 1st Cavalry, Airborne Division's 7th Regiment—the original outfit followed Gen. George Custer into the Battle of the Little Big Horn—held their own through 36 hours of at times savage fighting.

At least 129 enemy bodies were counted and as many as 150 more were believed to litter the battlefield in front of the American lines.

12 Helicopters
American casualties were termed moderate, but it required more than a dozen helicopters to take out the American wounded. Most of the dead were still in the battle zone. It was too dangerous for helicopters to fly except on urgent missions.

The American troops captured from 60 to 70 automatic weapons of every kind during three major assaults by members of the North Vietnamese 304th Division which infiltrated into South Viet Nam earlier this year.

The B52s hammered at an area of the more than two square miles where a main element of the North Vietnamese force was believed located. The American Cavalrymen pulled back before the air attack.

In earlier air action, North Vietnamese gunners blasted one

American A1E Skyraider out of the sky, a U.S. military spokesman reported. The pilot was killed when the plane exploded near the battleground 200 miles north of Saigon in the central highlands.

Most of the U.S. force was inside a narrow, heavily wooded valley while North Vietnamese units held the high ground.

Sniper fire was intense during the lulls between North Vietnamese attacks. American casualties mounted by the hour.

Three North Vietnamese battalions—about 2,000 men—were engaging the American troops and it was possible that others were waiting farther back.

Tshombe Has Chance To Return

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — Moise Tshombe's chances of ousting Congo President Joseph Kasavubu next year were on the rise today after Parliament overthrew the premier Kasavubu named to replace Tshombe.

The month-old government of Premier Evariste Kimba was declared dismissed Sunday after Tshombe's forces defeated a confidence motion during a joint session of the Senate and the Chamber of Deputies. The vote was 121 for Kimba, 134 against and 7 abstentions.

Kasavubu kicked out Tshombe Oct. 13 and replaced him five days later with Kimba, days later with Kimba.

In Sunday's vote the biggest surprise came from the senators, who voted against Kimba 58-49 with 5 abstentions. Six weeks ago the Senate elected a pro-Kimba president, 57-54.

Tshombe's supporters carried the Chamber of Deputies 76-72, off somewhat from their earlier strength of 85-7; six weeks ago when the deputies elected a pro-Tshombe president.

Sheppard Gets Hearing On Appeal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard, former Cleveland osteopath, was granted today a hearing on a new appeal to the Supreme Court from his conviction and life sentence for the slaying of his first wife.

Sheppard pressed in the new appeal a contention that publicity about his case made it impossible to impanel a fair and impartial jury.

The high tribunal in 1956 refused to review Sheppard's trial and his unsuccessful appeals to Ohio state courts. He then began habeas corpus proceedings in lower federal courts. Losing in this move, Sheppard again appealed to the Supreme Court.

His first wife, Marilyn, was pregnant when she was beaten to death in 1954 in their home. Sheppard said she was killed by a bushy-haired intruder.

Suharto Sees No Viet Nam In Central Java

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Maj. Gen. Suharto, the army chief, declared today Communists in central Java never will be able to create a second Viet Nam in Indonesia.

His remark to reporters came as press reports said some Indonesian Communist rebels in central Java tried to escape to West Java but were intercepted by army troops. There was no word of any captured, however.

One account said D.N. Aidit, the Communist party leader, had escaped an encirclement and now was believed in hiding near the central Javanese city of Jogjakarta.

The military was reported engaged in mopping up operations throughout central Java.

Stronger Economic Sanctions

British Lawmakers Deal With Rhodesian Problem

LONDON (AP) — Britain's Labor government planned to push its emergency Rhodesian legislation through Parliament today. Meanwhile, the British governor of the rebellious central African colony rejected Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith's demand that he get out of Government House.

The legislation to pave the way for stronger economic sanctions against Rhodesia's white minority government was expected to be rushed through Parliament without a formal vote.

Such Conservative diehards as the Marquess of Salisbury in the House of Lords and Patrick Wall and Robert Turton in the House of Commons were opposed to sanctions. But party leader Edward Heath, Reginald Maudling and other members of the opposition party's dominant moderate faction approved the government's action so far.

Chief Actions
The chief actions taken against the Rhodesian regime

are a ban on import of Rhodesian tobacco, which usually amounts to about $70 million a year, and various financial restrictions.

The Rhodesian government, after its declaration of independence Thursday, relieved Governor Sir Humphrey Gibbs of his office and told him to vacate Government House, his official residence and office.

In a statement addressed to the Rhodesian people Sunday, Gibbs replied that Smith's government was illegal and that the governor was the only "lawfully constituted authority in Rhodesia."

"I hold my office at the pleasure of Her Majesty the Queen and I will only resign if asked by Her Majesty to do so," Gibbs said. "Her Majesty has asked me to continue in office and I therefore remain your loyal governor and the lawfully constituted authority in Rhodesia."

No Move
Smith made no immediate move to eject Gibbs from Government House but in a statement said the governor "is representing not the queen but the British prime minister, thus aiding and abetting him in his obvious endeavor to create a division among the people of Rhodesia."

Looking grim and resolute, Smith went to Government House today and held his first face-to-face meeting with Gibbs since declaring independence. Smith was accompanied by his deputy, Clifford Dupont, and Justice Minister Desmond Lardner-Burke. He emerged from the hour-long confrontation and returned immediately to his own office.

Later he was asked if he would evict the governor from Government House and replied:

Half of State High Graduates Stay in School

39 Per Cent Enter College, Others in Technical Programs

MADISON (AP) — More than half of Wisconsin's 1964 high school graduates continued their formal education, a report presented to the University of Wisconsin board of regents said today.

Out of every 100 high school graduates, 39 entered a college, degree program; 11 enrolled in a vocational or technical school; two went into a nursing program and 48 did not continue their formal education.

The report, undertaken by the university's office of public services and survey research laboratory, compiles data on the directions of students in 95 per cent of the state's high schools.

The statistics indicate that the proximity of a university to the student's home is a factor in the educational choice the student makes.

Average of 557 Students

The average Wisconsin high school had 557 students during the 1965 spring semester and graduated 116 seniors the preceding year.

More than one half of the state's secondary schools were located in rural areas or villages of less than 2,500 population, the report said.

The University of Madison campus was the selection of comparatively large proportions of the valedictorians from high schools located in the capital city and Wisconsin cities of less than 10,000 population.

Very few of the best students from Milwaukee high schools, however, enrolled on the Madison campus.

The University of Wisconsin centers were selected by 17 per cent of the top graduates in Green Bay, Kenosha and Racine.

Shiocton Plans River Project

Thorp 'Horseshoe' May be Opened; Seek Cost Estimate

SHIOCTON — The village board plans to make a study on the cost of opening the Thorp horseshoe on the Wolf River about one-tenth of a mile above the State 54 bridge.

NEW LONDON — City police are investigating a break-in at Your Standard Station, 521 S. Pearl St. Friday night.

Reassessment, Application Of Surplus Funds Bring About Reduction in Spite of Spending

BRILLION — The application of surplus funds and a reappraisal of property have paved the way for a $3.54 tax rate reduction for the city's taxpayers in spite of increased municipal contributions.

To finance the total $646,794 budget adopted for 1966 by the City Council, a rate of $20.26 per $1,000 of assessed valuation will be required. The rate for the current year, when spending for city, school, county and state purposes is expected to reach $461,536, was $23.80.

Accounting for the rate cut despite an increase of spending are three factors — revenues from sources other than direct taxes will produce $200,750 next year; an application of $195,201 in unencumbered surplus funds; and the reappraisal of property.

The new rate, when levied against the city's $12,381,200 assessed valuation of real and personal property, will produce $250,843 in taxes. This year the $23.80 rate levied against $9,432,825 tax base produced $196,202.

Bringing up the assessment will have the property owner paying fewer dollars per $1,000 on value of property he owns, but the value of the property may have been increased, partially offsetting the benefit.

Neither of the rates listed includes the state tax credit reductions.

The 1966 budget includes $432,230 for city purposes, up $156,256 from this year's $275,974.

The city's share of the school district budget will be $171,003 compared with $146,823 this year. It will pay $41,293 in taxes to Calumet County, compared to $36,557 this year and $2,285 in unknown causes Sunday.

City police said they were called to Wisconsin Street about 9:45 a.m. Sunday when a resident found Guyette lying in the street.

He was taken to Community Hospital by a squad car and died about 4:30 p.m.

Funeral arrangements are pending at the Kircher Funeral Home.

'First Time' Laryngitis Bothers Woman On 91st Fete at New London

NEW LONDON — Mrs. A. R. Margraff, 503 Wyman St., celebrated her 91st birthday today and marked another first in her life a week earlier.

Mrs. Margraff, who had spent a healthy 90 years, came down with laryngitis a week before her birthday and it disturbed her no end.

"This is the first time in my life that I have ever been hoarse," she said in a hoarse whisper.

Diminutive Mrs. Margraff, still spry and alert, has not let the years catch up with her.

Charter Club Member A good card game is her greatest enjoyment. She is the only charter member remaining in the Tuesday club originated 61 years ago by 13 members of Emanuel Lutheran Church.

She also is a charter member of the West Side Club organized 42 years ago.

The date she joined the Emanuel Church Ladies Aid, also a charter member, is not certain. She recalls that a few women met at the home of Rev. Adolph Spiering to organize the group which now has more than 200 members.

She was born in New London, Nov. 15, 1874. Her grandmother ventured up the Wolf River by boat from Oshkosh that year to get to New London and visit her parents, she said.

Her father, Henry Emda, operated a cigar store in the downtown business district for a number of years, she said. She lives with a daughter, Mrs. Walter Schoenrock, in a home built by her mother while her father was ill.

Married in 1893 She married Arthur Margraff in 1893. He operated a dry goods store for a number of years in New London, where G. A. Vandree's is now located, and died about 22 years ago.

She says she now can't see well enough to do fancy sewing. Television and solitaire are her favorite pastimes.

An open house was held by Mrs. Schoenrock Sunday for relatives and friends.

Sheldon Knoespel, center, son of Mrs. Lillian Knoespel, route 3, Kaukauna, and a Brillion High School graduate, receives an $800 scholarship from the Western Electric Fund. H. E. Under New Coach

Chilton Cagers Open Against Hilbert High

CHILTON — The Chilton High School basketball team will open its 1965-66 campaign at Hilbert Friday night under new head coach John Thome.

Coach Thome has six lettermen returning from the Tiger team that won nine games and lost 10 last year. In the Eastern Wisconsin Conference the Tigers won seven and lost nine.

Thome will be building his team around two returning starters, Leroy Schmidkofer, a 5-11 senior forward and Don McHugh, 5-10 junior guard.

Other lettermen returning include Don Pagel, 5-8 senior guard who was the leading scorer on the junior varsity team last year; John Hauser, 5-10 junior guard, a steady junior varsity performer who earned a starting assignment with the varsity in the final games of the 1964-65 season; Loren Wagner, 6-2 senior center who is a two-year letterman; and Jim Pfeiffer, 6-2 junior center, another junior varsity product from their outstanding 17-2 record from last year.

Top Prospects Other top prospects who are expected to see lots of action and very possibly break into the starting lineup are Nick Schneider, 5-10 sophomore forward; Mike Flemming, 5-11 junior forward; Jim Daun, 6-1 senior forward, and Ron Nicolay, 5-9 junior guard.

Coach Thome feels that the Tigers have good speed, aggressiveness and hustle but will be definitely weak on rebounding with no height. With very little experience, the team could suffer in early games, the coach feels.

The Chilton coach went on to pick New Holstein as the top title contender with the Plymouth club as a solid second.

The Tigers open Eastern Wisconsin Conference play here against Kiel Nov. 24.

Schaefer's 7.3-Yard Average Topped Chilton Tiger Runners

CHILTON — Final team statistics of the Chilton Tigers football team that compiled a 7-4 record show that Senior Dave Schaefer, the league's scoring champion, had Chilton's best rushing average. Schaefer rushed for 623 yards in 86 carries for a 7.3 yards per carry. Runner-up to Schaefer was all-conference halfback junior Don McHugh who rushed for 640 yards in 92 carries for an average of 7 yards per carry. Jim Daun, senior fullback, picked up 288 yards in 65 carries for an average of 4.4 yards per carry.

As a team the Tigers had a total, 1,796 yards in 328 carries for a 5.5 yards per carry average.

Throw 91 Passes Tiger quarterback John Hauser and Nick Schneider combined threw a total of 91 times and completed 45 passes. The total yardage on the completions was 774 yards for a 17.2 yards per pass average.

Jim Daun did all the punting for the Tigers, kicking 15 times for 451 yards or an average of 30 yards per punt.

The team scored 199 points compared to their opponent's 71 points. Chilton had the edge in first downs 104-76.

The Tigers recovered only six of their 14 fumbles. However, Chilton forced their opponents to fumble 20 times and the Tigers came up with 11 of them. Chilton was penalized 247 yards compared with 220 for the opposition.

Farm Bureau Selects Queen

Greenleaf Girl, Cheryl Haefman, Crowned Sunday

Cheryl L. Haefman, 19, Greenleaf, was crowned Miss Farm Bureau of 1966 Sunday night at the Wisconsin Farm Bureau Federation's youth banquet at Milwaukee.

The federation opened its 46th annual convention Sunday with expectations of a fresh attack on federal farm legislation.

MORE Farm Bureau staff member Gail Hamilton charged the new, enacted four-year farm bill is contradictory. Hamilton noted it set up payments to retire acreage from production while also providing price supports to encourage production and payments for use of fertilizer to boost yields.

The convention will continue through Wednesday with Gov. Warren P. Knowles addressing the farmers on the final day. Percy Hardiman of Hartland is president of the Wisconsin Farm Bureau, which has 24,000 member families.

The Farm Bureau Young People's Committee re-elected Dave Kahl of Barron as chairman, with Russell Bringe of Holmen named vice chairman and Robert Oleson of Palmyra chosen secretary.

Joann Schmieg of Antigo won the Young People's speech competition.

Grant Johannesen Will Perform at Lawrence

Pianist Grant Johannesen, one of this country's most widely known and respected performing artists, will present the second of this season's Lawrence-Community Artists Series concerts at 8 p.m. Thursday, in Lawrence University Memorial Chapel.

Johannesen, a native of Salt Lake City, made his New York debut in 1914.

Since then he has appeared with every major symphony in this country and has toured five continents playing at such festivals as Aix-en-Provence, Amsterdam, Bergen, Helsinki, Oslo and Aspen (where for the past five years he has been artist-in-residence). He has performed at Ravinia, the Hollywood Bowl, and on television, where he has made eight appearances on The Bell Telephone Hour.

Moscow Sensation
Johannesen's most sensational concert engagements have come in the Soviet Union. In 1963 his first Moscow appearance was called "one of the greatest triumphs by a visiting artist in Moscow." This past summer when Johannesen returned to the city as soloist with George Szell and the Cleveland Orchestra, police were forced to erect metal barriers to constrain a crowd of enthusiasts who had been unable to buy tickets for the concert.

The State of Utah has honored him by declaring that May 13 would annually be known as Grant Johannesen Day in recognition of his Russian triumph. And Johannesen was one of the first concert artists with enough drawing power to fill the enormous Mormon Tabernacle.

Early Training
The pianist's early training took place in his hometown. Although neither of his parents was a musician, there was an aunt who was an opera singer in Scandinavia, and his mother's cousin, Anne Mathea, a graduate of the Paris Conservatoire, made her name as a lieder and folk singer.

Johannesen's wife, the brilliant cellist Zara Nelsova, often appears in concert with him. They met at the Aspen Festival during a Brahms Trio performance.

Nelson Won't Take Public Stand for Either Lucey, Carley

Expects Bruising Battle as Two Clash for Democratic Nomination

BY DAVE NOWAK

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Sen. Gaylord Nelson (D-Wis.) said Sunday he "won't take a public stand for either Lt. Gov. Patrick Lucey or David Carley, contestants for the Democratic nomination for governor."

Nelson, who spent the afternoon watching the Packer-Ram football game and chatting with Democrats at the James Dana home, 1015 Jardin St., Appleton, did "not wish to indicate any preference" in what is expected to be a bruising battle for the nomination.

Carley was director of state company as a senior clerk in the purchasing department in 1946. He was named storekeeper in 1950, leading storekeeper in 1958 and stores department supervisor in November of this year.

'A Kennedy Will Run'
Nelson said "there is no doubt that at some time one of the Kennedys will secure the Democratic nomination for president." He did not know, however, whether it would be Robert Kennedy, a New York senator, or Edward Kennedy, a Massachusetts senator.

The first-term senator, who has been critical at times of the Johnson administration's Viet Nam policy, "doesn't think we should get into a land war with North Viet Nam," Nelson added that while he recognizes the U.S. "cannot withdraw unilaterally," he has "serious reservations about expansion of our land forces."

Commitment of U. S. forces is expected to top the 200,000 mark by the beginning of 1966. Asked his opinion of a speech delivered last month by Sen. J. William Fulbright (D-Arkansas) criticizing U.S. policy in the recent Dominican Republic crisis, Nelson said he thought Fulbright "made a thoughtful contribution to the dialogue" on what U.S. policy should be towards countries in the western Hemisphere. Nelson added that he "did not agree 100 percent" with Fulbright.

'Absolutely Untenable'
He did term however, "absolutely untenable" the House resolution stating the U.S. government will unilaterally intervene in any situation in Latin America where there is a threat of Communist takeover. "You can't tell nations what governments they can have," Nelson added.

Nelson felt the demonstrations opposing U.S. policy in Viet Nam "have received notice far beyond significance." He said York City Center production of the teach-ins and forums being held across the country contribute to an understanding of the issues although "both sides have said some foolish things."

Asked to assess the administration's anti-poverty program, Nelson said "some projects will work, others won't. Those that don't work should be discarded." He said it is better to have something than nothing noting that "we have an obligation to provide training and opportunities for youths who have lived in poverty." Nelson felt the program "will work out."

Pollution Control

A strong advocate of conserving the nation's resources, Nelson said he plans to introduce a measure which will provide funds for research facilities to review the effects of pesticides with the hope of eliminating those chemicals which persist in water and in the soil.

He said the bill would also provide grants and matching funds to industries and municipalities for cleaning up polluted water.

Nelson said that while "the people are ahead of Congress" on the question of air and water pollution, there is a greater need for understanding the criticalness of the problem. "The public is prepared to support" a program to curb pollution, he added.

Nelson attended a testimonial dinner Saturday night at New London honoring Louis J. Hanson, chairman of the state Democratic Party.

Dancer Will Direct Class At Lawrence

Alice Uchida Wassermann, formerly of the Martha Graham dance company, will direct a master class in modern dance at Lawrence University, Nov. 20. The afternoon session begins at 2:30 p.m. in Slansbury Theatre.

Registrations for the event are being accepted at the Lawrence University box office, Music-Drama Center, 115 N. Park Ave. Class sponsorship is by the Lawrence Department of Theatre and Drama. Active participants and spectators are welcome.

Mrs. Wassermann taught at the Martha Graham Studio, New York City, in the years 1953-55, and appeared with the Graham group at the city's American Dance Festival in 1955.

That year she danced the role of Topsy in a Jerome Robbins production for the movie "The King and I." A year later she took the same role in a New York City Center production of the musical. She taught the dance at the Juilliard School of Music, New York City, in 1954. That year she was also demonstrator and assistant for Yuriko at the Connecticut College School of the Dance, New London. In 1955 she assisted David Wood at the same school, and appeared with the Ethel Winter group at the Henry Street Playhouse, New York City.

Thomas E. Fairchild

Fairchild Will Run Again For High Court

MADISON (AP) — Thomas E. Fairchild announced today he will be a candidate for re-election to the Wisconsin Supreme Court. The election is April 5.

The 52-year-old justice was elected to a 10-year term in 1956, succeeding his father, the late Chief Justice Edward T. Fairchild.

Justice Fairchild is a native of Milwaukee and received a bachelor's degree from Cornell University in 1934 and a law degree from the University of Wisconsin in 1938.

He was elected attorney general in 1948. At the completion of his two-year term he was the unsuccessful Democratic candidate for the U.S. Senate seat held by the late Joseph R. McCarthy. Fairchild served later as U.S. attorney for the Western District.

Egg-Thrower Missed Target, So Court Goes Easy on Girl

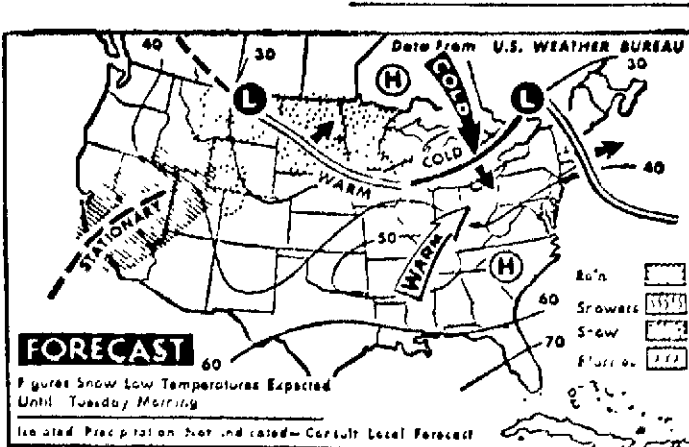

ROME (AP) — The case of the eggs hurled at Congolese ex-Premier Moise Tshombe on the Via Veneto last year got a bit scrambled for a while. But it ended happily when a court exonerated a pretty 17-year-old demonstrator, Laura Gonzales del Castillo, because she missed her target. Police seized a three-egg arsenal from Laura's handbag which, they said, they contributed to some nearby tears.

No wires, no thermostats, no hot spots and no danger of overheating with Fieldcrest's revolutionary new THERMAFLO® the first completely wireless automatic blanket ever made! So reliable, so durable, so worry free, THERMAFLO® can take all the punishment of ordinary use by active kids. They can rumple it, bounce on it, pull it, even chew it in perfect security, because it has no wires, no contact with electricity.

THERMAFLO® works on an entirely different but supremely simple principle. Just a cupful of water is warmed in a reservoir in the control box (your choice of lukewarm to baby bottle temperature), then is circulated gently through a fine network of strong water tight plastic tubes in the blanket. All electrical contact stops at the control box, never touching water, tubes or blanket.

With THERMAFLO® there's never a warm up or cool down problem. After you've made your temperature selection (there are nine, to suit the most delicate sensibilities) on the Night Lite Dial THERMAFLO® maintains this point constantly regardless of changes in room temperature, providing warm protection for the most rambunctious sleeper.

It's easy as child's play to care for THERMAFLO®. The 100% acrylic blanket machine washes back to its original fluff softness and delicate colors and no thought need be given to the sturdy interior tubing. Even with constant use THERMAFLO® may need to filling only a few times a season—a simple matter of snapping up the filler cap and pouring in water to the fill mark. No overheating danger if you forget, because thermostatic controls shut it off automatically if it runs out of water.

An Important Vote by the CCHE

A most significant vote was recorded at last week's meeting of the Coordinating Committee for Higher Education on a procedural question which on the surface did not appear of major significance. It made few headlines, but its significance will begin to emerge as the committee makes future decisions on the structure of higher education in the state.

The committee was in the process of adopting criteria for the selection of an executive director to the committee. Arthur DeBardeleben, president of the University of Wisconsin Board of Regents, proposed a preamble to the criteria which he said would set the context in which the executive director would work.

But it soon became obvious that DeBardeleben, as a spokesman for the University of Wisconsin, was proposing a role for the Coordinating Committee in exercising its functions and powers considerably more limited than what was intended by the legislature and Governor

Knowles when they reorganized the committee.

Newly appointed members of the committee, named by Governor Knowles, joined forces with members representing the state university system and defeated DeBardeleben's preamble by an 8 to 7 vote. In effect the vote said that in the future the Coordinating Committee would not be dictated to by the University of Wisconsin.

This was the result Governor Knowles hoped to achieve when he proposed to the legislature earlier this year that enough new public members be appointed to the committee so that they would have a majority over members representing the state's various higher educational systems.

Under this reorganization Governor Knowles and the legislature envisaged that the new committee would take firm control of the job of coordinating higher education. And last week's vote confirms that a majority of the new committee intends to do just that.

More Troops to Viet Nam

Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara has announced that the United States will continue to send more combat forces to the jungle war in Viet Nam. We are witnessing what we have feared all along, the gradual but unmistakable step-up in the conflict, the "escalation" of a nagging, vicious, terroristic foray into a full-scale ground war with more and more American troops committed.

Obviously the new United States forces are being sent, as McNamara explained, because North Viet Nam is becoming more deeply involved. No longer are only the Viet Cong the mainstay of the opposition. As the Viet Cong suffer increasing casualties—up 100 per cent according to the Defense Department—they are getting more help from Hanoi.

As we have consistently stated, our current involvement in Viet Nam is something we cannot back away from. We are committed. Whether or not we should be so committed—and whether or not our participation was the best way to defeat creeping Communism in Viet Nam—any American withdrawal now without guarantees of some kind that the South Vietnamese will be left alone to work out their destinies would be a serious defeat for the causes of freedom.

But what is disturbing is the administration's repeated failure to recognize what our involvement would cost and its failure to tell the American public the truth. Only two years ago Secretary McNamara, after one of his trips to Saigon, said that American troops were to be gradually withdrawn and that the fracas was almost over. A year ago the Democratic Party, campaigning for national election, scorned the Republican idea of waging a hotter war. Right after the first of the year it began to conduct such a war. Now it seems that the 160,000 American troops are not anywhere enough. And the administration still considers victory in the jungles in South Viet Nam possible or perhaps even likely without full scale bombing of military installations close to Hanoi or an effective blockade of North Vietnamese ports.

Some Republicans, including Barry Goldwater and Congressman Melvin Laird, have urged a wider attack upon the north. This is a delicate matter. Would such further escalation encourage the Red Chinese to become more actively involved? Or would it make it clear that the United States will continue to step up the war until the Communists give up? Our policies here are somewhat vague as well. So far our increased participation has meant more involvement by North Vietnamese troops. When will that justify a wider attack by Americans on Hanoi?

More than 1,000 Americans have died in the war in Viet Nam, three-fourths of them in the last year. While this is a small figure compared to the carnage on American highways, it is up probably close to a 600 per cent increase over 1964. Is the United States policy against more pressure on North Viet Nam really a political matter as was the opposition to wider war during the election campaigns?

The history of American participation in the Vietnamese conflict does not contribute to confidence in the way the Johnson Administration is conducting the war.

Sex in the Barroom

If emancipated Appleton women are irate over the city council's refusal to erase the city ordinance which prohibits the granting of bartenders' licenses to women, they may take comfort in the probability that the matter will go to court. The ordinance would appear to run into some difficulties with the Civil Rights Act of 1964 and the recent guidelines established by the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission which has the responsibility of hearing complaints of violations.

Sex may be used to qualify for certain employment, the commission guidelines state, but it is unlawful to classify certain jobs exclusively for males or females unless sex is a bona fide occupational qualification. Such qualifications exist where sex is vital in job performance, such as women to model women's clothing; where it is significant "in terms of community standards of morality or propriety" such as a man to work in the men's washroom; or where sex is a bona fide factor in fulfilling provisions of other laws, such as those which require that only men masseurs serve men.

There obviously could be some debate on the subject. Can women make a really perfect martini? Can they listen equally well to the troubles of both male and female customers? Do they distract from the hard business of drinking and maybe cut down on the consumption? And are the "community standards of morality or propriety" to be local or national in scope? Quite obviously an ordinance in itself cannot be upheld merely because it exists if it is in conflict with the federal law or southern communities would pass laws regarding employment of Negroes and whites.

But the Appleton city council is playing politically safe in all probability by its refusal to throw out the ordinance. Its members can virtuously protect our women from working in a bar and then be overruled by that behemoth, the federal government.

Looking Backward

Reconstruction Going Slowly

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Motor for Nov. 23, 1865

The President evidently is of the opinion that the South Carolinians have, thus far, failed in their efforts at reconstruction. The following telegram has been addressed to the Hon. B. F. Perry, the Military or Provisional Governor of that State:

"The President observes with regret that neither the Constitution nor the State Legislature has pronounced the debts or obligations contracted in the name of the State for unconstitutional or even rebellious purposes to be void.

"He equally regrets that the State seems to decline to pass the Congressional amendment of the Constitution of the United States abolishing slavery. I telegraphed you yesterday as follows:

"The President desires me to write you that an early adoption of the Congressional Amendment of the Constitution of the United States abolishing slavery by the South Carolina Legislature is deemed peculiarly important and especially desirable, with reference to the general situation of the Union. I have now only to say the President's opinion before expressed remains unchanged."

(signed) W. H. Seward
Similar instructions have been sent to Gov. Holden of North Carolina, and Gov. Sharkey (provisional governor) of Mississippi.

The President's plan of reconstruction does not contemplate a mere formality by which the rebels will be admitted back into the Union to plot and disturb, but a bona-fide renunciation of all treasonable designs and the radical extirpation of every vestige of slavery.

Kashmir Dispute Is Real Obstacle
To Further Aid to India, Pakistan

BY MAX FREEDMAN

An altogether new light on the Kashmir problem has been cast by a former senior official of the World Bank. Until now we have watched this crisis develop as a struggle which carried the gravest threat not only to the security of India and Pakistan but to the peace of Asia. It now is clear that Kashmir has cut across and perhaps blocked large-scale plans for new economic aid for both India and Pakistan.

The ugly display of pride and passion over Kashmir has also had a most unfortunate effect on the general programs to assist the emerging nations. For Kashmir has shown that the new nations are ready to imperil their economic growth by diverting their limited resources to war and to struggles for political prestige.

These revelations have been made by Mr. Escott Reid, until three months ago the director of the World Bank's operations in South Asia and the Middle East. He is now the principal of Glendon College at York University in Toronto.

NEW STUDIES UNDER WAY

Mr. Reid points out that before the fighting over Kashmir began in September, the World Bank was conducting "independent, expert, confidential enquiries" on the problems and prospects of India's and Pakistan's economies. These enquiries were being made in the hope that they would provide enough satisfactory evidence to allow the friends of India and Pakistan to give them more economic aid and to do so on easier terms. Mr. Reid reports that it looked as if the World Bank, as a result of its enquiries and of its negotiations with the two governments, might be able to give this kind of assurance to the principal aid-givers. Then came the fighting.

Before the war, it was by no means certain that India and Pakistan would reach their economic goals. Now "their friends throughout the world are haunted by insistent questions." They want to know what chance either country has of succeeding if it continues to divert scarce resources of foreign exchange, of men and materials and money, to fighting and to armaments. They want to know what the future holds if either country lives at best in a state of tension with its neighbor, at worst in a state of smouldering or actual war. They want to know if these tensions and risks will not produce still greater pressure from China. They want to know if internal strains and stresses within each country will strengthen the forces of regionalism and factionalism, striving up the latent antipathies between Hindus and Muslims. It should be remembered that there are ten million Hindus in East Pakistan and fifty million Muslims in India.

Mr. Reid admits that it is easier to ask these questions now than it is to answer them. But it surely is of the utmost significance that precisely these questions are now being anxiously studied by the very governments to which India and Pakistan must look for help.

Would it be such a calamity, then, if the aid programs stopped or else fell very sharply? Would not reduced aid compel both Pakistan and India, if only by the stark pressure of economic necessity, to turn from strife to reluctant co-operation?

SPEAKS WITH AUTHORITY

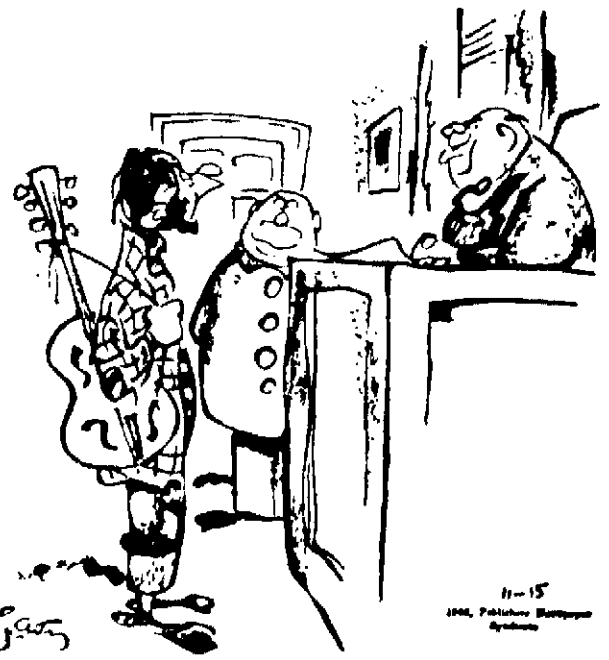

Mr. Reid's advice on this point deserves to be carefully studied by the Johnson administration, for few people in the Western World can match his knowledge and authority. He is convinced that it would be absolutely calamitous, from the standpoint of the West's own interests, to apply a policy of economic coercion in the belief that it would produce greater political sanity and moderation in Pakistan and India. This kind of pressure would kindle the most stubborn and vehement protests in both countries. It would arm the extremists with a powerful weapon to discredit the United States as a fair weather friend with no abiding interest in the stability or progress of the Indian subcontinent. It would cripple the efforts of moderate leaders in India and Pakistan who want their country to have the closest ties with the United States rather than to drift into a harsh and dangerous dependence on either Russia or China. The Johnson administration should consider economic aid on its merits and avoid the danger of using it as a device to extort political concessions from India and Pakistan. Magnanimity in politics, as Burke said, is not seldom the truest wisdom.

From 1952-57, when he was Canadian High Commissioner to India, Mr. Reid was known to have the friendship and confidence of Nehru to an unsurpassed degree. Without sentiment but with strict accuracy he has referred to India as his "second home." But he has never been an apologist for India on Kashmir. He thinks her obsession with Kashmir has prevented the reconciliation with Pakistan which should be the first objective of a wise and constructive Indian foreign policy. Now Kashmir is endangering the economic future of both countries. Is it not time for both countries to think again and to change course before they drag us all once more to the edge of the abyss?

The procedure is part of a comprehensive research project to develop a strain of "super trees" with internal qualities custom-made for pulp making. A two-year study of the more than 1,777 different types of trees found in the United States narrowed the field down to 44 superior trees to be used as "parents."

City Hall Doesn't
Often Lead to Higher
Position in Politics

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON—As an inevitable consequence of the dramatic mayoralty election in New York, the news wires overflowed with speculation about the probable future goals of youthful Rep. Lindsay, the Republican turned independent who turned back the Democratic machine there for the first time in a generation. Here and there a cautious writer notes that mayors of New York during its long history have not prospered in their later careers. This recalls the circumstance that city hall in Wisconsin has also been peculiarly barren with respect to producing political leaders for a wider constituency.

Wyngaard

Wisconsin has been electing governors and U.S. senators and other statewide officers and representatives for nearly a century and a quarter. They have come from an infinite variety of political backgrounds. Yet it is curious that rarely have the men who have been chosen to head city governments, in spite of their responsibilities and their relevant experiences, been called upon by the people or more particularly by the political parties for the higher responsibilities of state and national offices.

WHY?

In the larger cities of the nation, the reasons for such disqualification are undoubtedly associated with the enormously controversial and difficult nature of the mayor's office.

In most of the big city states, there is a cleavage between outstate and the metropolis, not only on partisan and ideological lines, but in cultural attitudes. Upstate New York and downstate Illinois are representative of the phenomenon.

Yet that should not influence Wisconsin decisions especially. Wisconsin cities are not afflicted by the machine rule that has made some of the larger cities of the country politically notorious. In Wisconsin currently, moreover, the Democrats have prospered by a direct recognition of the urban vote and the urban interest and have virtually pulled up to equal rank with the Republicans in consequence of the strategy.

The reasons for the "unavailability" of mayors in state party nomination terms must be sought elsewhere, including, probably, the circumstance that Wisconsin has for more than half a century put its municipal elections outside the partisan system. A mayor of Madison or La Crosse or Milwaukee or Green Bay or Appleton can be a sterling administrator, a trusted and affectionately regarded leader of the community. But he is unlikely to win any recognition in statewide political terms because he carries no label. The men who control nominations for higher offices are interested in the prosperity of parties.

EXPOSURE

There is also the problem of establishing recognition outside the local executive's jurisdiction, or what the politicians of today call "exposure." Even as the nonpartisan attracts little notice among the partisans, the most successful mayor of a Wisconsin city attracts no particular attention outside his own neighborhood.

The most junior legislative politician, the lowest ranking of the state constitutional officers, or the most untried officer of a party organization commands more publicity than the most effective administrator in city hall minding his own local business and working without partisan identity.

To suggest the curious exclusion of such men is to cause some reflection about the obvious waste of a source of talent and leadership in state politics. No doubt there will also be some rebuttals, including the recollection that Mayor Albert Schmiedeman of Madison in 1932 was nominated and elected governor. There are two rejoinders. First, he is the only example that can be shown in modern Wisconsin history. Second—if you will excuse the expression—a Chinaman could have been elected on the Democratic ticket in that year.

Milwaukee should be a fair illustration. The late Dan Hoan was a world-recognized figure and served as Milwaukee mayor for a generation. But he encountered only disaster when he tried for partisan office.

Strictly Personal

Every Game Should be Handicapped as Golf

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

One of the virtues of golf—although it is not a game I play—is that each player knows exactly how the others play, even before getting on the course. The score you normally shoot is how you play.

Harris

This is not true of most other pastimes. A stranger telephoned me today, saying he was the friend of a friend in New York. Our mutual friend had suggested he call me when he got to town, to play chess.

"He says you're quite a good chess player," the man remarked. "Not at all," I replied. "I'm only an ardent one."

How "well" does anyone play chess, or bridge, or tennis? There is no objective measurement until you have played with him. I am a "good" chess player only by mediocre social standards; by expert standards, I am an intolerable duffer.

If golf, a player barely breaks 100, or shoots in the 90s, 80s, or 70s. These classes are distinct and objective, no false modesty is possible, and no guesswork is necessary; the score speaks for itself.

It might eliminate a lot of social mistakes and tensions if people would rate their prowess at other games on the same basis as golf. My chess game, for instance, is in the upper 80s; my bridge game is in the 90s. My tennis used to be somewhere in the upper 70s, and now is in the upper 80s.

Moreover, in golf, it doesn't really matter how poor one's opponent is. The better player handicaps himself a certain number of strokes; and, besides, each player is playing against par, and not against his opponent. A duffer and an expert can have a fairly enjoyable game.

This is impossible in most other contests. A good chess player is no challenge in playing against a potzer; an expert bridge player is bored to tears (unless the stakes are extremely high) playing against a palooka. And a tennis match is no game at all if one of the players can barely return the ball.

In this sense, I suppose, golf is perhaps the most democratic and fraternal of games: the good player does not look down upon the inferior one with contempt and impatience. His anger is reserved for his own inadequacies; players get mad only at themselves in golf.

The anger of the bridge player at his inept partner might be ameliorated if some kind of handicapping system were possible at the table, just as a golf partnership will be allowed a handicap. If three spades, for instance, were "game" for a poor partnership, instead of four spades, it might tend to equalize the disparity of some matches.

Which reminds me of the lady who had butchered a hand and turned to ask the expert watching her how she should have played it. "Under an assumed name," he whispered fiercely, and strode away.

Ike's Trips to State Usually To Catch Fish

Politics Important But Relaxing Was More Important

By DION HENDERSON Associated Press Writer

MILWAUKEE (AP) A half dozen different projects brought Dwight Eisenhower to Wisconsin during the 20 years after World War II. But he always managed to bring a golf bag and a fish pole with him.

And his ninth visit last summer, was avowedly for the same purpose as his first back in July of 1946 to deal with the wily muskellunge along with whatever bass, trout, walleyes and such as made themselves available.

"I know how to relax in all the languages known to man," he told newsmen on that first trip, with the grin that was already famous, but with its great est fame yet to come. And it might be noted that he also said, at the same time, that he didn't know very much about politics, which turned out to be one of the understatement of the century.

After that first visit, which was a vacation for the man who had held the supreme command in executing the victory in Europe, Eisenhower came back as an educator, while he was president of Columbia as a candidate after he had won the Republican presidential nomination as a politician putting in strong words for old friends, and even as an admirer of rail road trains—the full sized kinds.

Most Excitement

The 1952 visit, as president candidate generated the most excitement then and later Eisenhower came prepared to make a few less-than-complimentary remarks about Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy who had been doing the same thing about Eisenhower's old boss, Gen. George C. Marshall.

But wrath was tempered by politics and the GOP nominee wound up with McCarthy on the observation platform of a railroad car in Green Bay. He said that his differences with the controversial Communist-hunting Wisconsin Senator apply to our methods and to the anguish of McCarthy opponents ended him for re-election.

The rapport hardly lasted until McCarthy got off the train, but the performance paid off in politics, major measure of success: McCarthy won re-election, and Eisenhower carried the state by a bigger margin than the senator.

Back to Green Bay

As former President, Eisenhower had less success in 1964, when he came back to take part officially for the Green Bay Railroad Museum dedication of the British locomotive that drew his World War II command train and unofficially to do what he could to help win election of Wilbur Renk to the U.S. Senate.

Renk had been one of his earliest supporters in Wisconsin

Name Minnesota Top Debate Team Of 58 at WSU-O

OSHKOSH University of Minnesota was named top debate team of 58 teams from 26 colleges and universities in the Midwest entered in the ninth annual debate tournament at the University of Wisconsin-Oshkosh, according to John Schmidt, WSU-O director of Forensics.

The University of Minnesota, a negative team won over top affirmative team, Illinois State University-Bloomington, Saturday after two days of power match debating. Illinois State went undefeated in seven rounds of debate leading to the final while Minnesota won six of the seven matches.

Second place trophies were awarded to Northwestern University, affirmative, and University of Wisconsin-White water, negative.

Four of the top five individual debaters represented schools in Minnesota, the University of Minnesota, two from Concordia College, Morehead and St. John's University, Collegeville. The other winner represented Illinois State University.

and the personal affection in Eisenhower's appeal on his behalf was as obviously present in the 1964 endorsement as it was lacking in the 1952 gesture. Renk lost to senior Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis.

The Eisenhower-McCarthy mutual-lack-of-affection society never cooled to simple dislike incidentally. When the Wisconsin senator's career was ebbing in on him and the Senate was contemplating censure, a friend brought word to him that a call to the White House still might save off disaster. McCarthy, to the surprise of no one who knew him, did not call.

Mostly Fishing

But most of the Eisenhower visits, and those that won the "welcome back" greetings for the couple familiarly addressed from the Douglas County Brule to the bass ponds of Kings Gateway as Ike and Mamie, had to do with one of the things Wisconsin is proudest of: fishing. There was a lodge renovated for him some years back at Snap Jack Lake, on Lawrence Fisher's place, and a room ready at Howard Young's, near Minocqua, and another lodge owned by a Minneapolis friend on the Brule, and still another at Manitowish Waters, and on some trips Ike and Mamie, or his brothers, would make most of the stops.

There was golf, too, and one of his favorite courses was the Minocqua Country Club. But a guide put the whole thing in focus on one of the early trips. Golf, he said, is what a man can do when the fish aren't biting.

Storage Tank Dismantled

Familiar, Scene Gone in Appleton Industrial Flats

A familiar part of the scene in the Appleton industrial flats, the large steel storage tank which held manufactured gas for the Wisconsin Michigan Power Co. last week was dismantled, scrapped and will be sold.

Built in 1926, the tank has been used since 1950 to store natural gas, but power company officials have determined there is little need for storage of the natural gas and the tank was considered useless.

Of heavy steel, the tank ranks in size to a goodsized office building. It has long been a landmark for Fox River boaters and motorists along Water Street.

Officials said there is nothing planned at the site in the near future and the land will probably be used as a storage area. Natural gas piped to Appleton since 1950, unlike manufactured gas, needs no storage facilities. In event a natural gas pipeline is broken, another pipeline can be diverted into use. The spokesman likened the divergence to electricity flowing along power lines.

When the storage tank was built, it held over 500,000 cubic feet of gas. The gas was manufactured in a plant nearby.

Rare Wisconsin Law Outlined to State Leaders

Wyngaard Tells of Open-Meeting Act At San Juan Parley

Post-Crescent News Service
SAN JUAN, PUERTO RICO — The unique Wisconsin open-meeting law is one of the significant factors for good government administration in that state, a Wisconsin state capitol correspondent told American state legislative leaders here at the National Conference of Legislative Leaders annual convention.

John Wyngaard, veteran Madison bureau manager of the Green Bay Press Gazette and Appleton Post-Crescent was a member of a panel of five journalists from around the country that discussed the press and the legislature at the opening session of the conference which included Democratic and Republican statehouse leaders from more than 30 states.

Sen. Robert P. Knowles of New Richmond, Republican majority leader of the Wisconsin state senate, is presiding. He is president of the organization. Speaker Jesse Unruh of the California legislature is expected to be elected head of the organization for the next year.

Anti-Secrecy Act

Wyngaard urged the leaders of other legislatures to study the Wisconsin anti-secrecy act which applies to all levels of government in the state and assures public deliberation on public business in all except a few narrowly defined special categories of exceptions.

Discussing the operation of the Wisconsin legislature and the Wisconsin state government administration, the reporter said that the law has been upheld in the fullest spirit, and in the letter. Problems in the application of the open-meeting statute have occurred largely in local government administration, he observed and are declining there.

Wyngaard said the Wisconsin law was a bipartisan achievement and that its application has been relatively smooth because of a long tradition of intense press coverage of Wisconsin legislative affairs.

The Wisconsin open-meeting law has been beneficial to the legislature and other state government officials, and has served the ideal of public education and enlightenment.

British Set To Deal With African Woe

"We haven't got a governor in Rhodesia any more."

Newsmen asked if force would be used to oust Gibbs.

"This is a decision for him to make," Smith said. In reply to another question he added, "We hope to solve this thing amicably."

Prime Minister Wilson's office said it feared Gibbs is in danger from Smith's government and that anyone who ordered or carried out his forcible expulsion commits an act of treason.

Few Rhodesians knew of the governor's statement. Government censorship kept it out of the local papers and off the Rhodesian radio.

Declared Wrong

But the congregation at Salisbury's Anglican Cathedral heard Bishop Cecil W. Alderson declare that the seizure of independence was wrong and illegal. He said Christians should disobey laws enacted by Smith's regime to "subvert the spirit of the displaced constitution," which Smith threw out after his declaration of independence.

"Naturally we do not expect to escape the penalties of disobedience, any more than the apostles escaped when they proclaimed the truth against the Jewish authorities' injunctions," the bishop said.

At the United Nations, African members continued to demand that Britain use force against Smith's government but they were faced with the necessity of dropping this demand from the resolution they put before the Security Council.

The majority of the council's 11 members would not support the call for military action. A rival British resolution calling for an arms embargo against Rhodesia also had no chance of adoption.

Negotiations for a compromise centered on an Ivory Coast revision of the African resolution. It called for an oil embargo and steps to protect the lives of Rhodesia's 4 million Africans but omitted the original resolution's demands for all countries to cut transport and communication links with Rhodesia.

The British pointed out that the economy of Zambia, where the black majority is in power, is dependent on copper exports and that most of the copper is exported via Rhodesia's railways.

600.6-m.p.h. Record Set By Breedlove

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Utah (AP) — Craig Breedlove cracked the 600 mile per hour barrier today and set a world land speed record on the western Utah salt flats, the Utah Highway Patrol reported.

His two-way average was 600.6 miles per hour.

The California speedster was clocked at 593.178 m.p.h. on his second run. The average speed is computed from these times plus wind and track conditions.

Breedlove had held the record for jet cars four times before. He broke it only two weeks ago, but lost it five days later to Art Arons of Akron, Ohio. It was Arons' mark of 576.353 m.p.h. that Craig exceeded today.

vessels brought survivors, some blanket-wrapped and bandaged Saturday after breaking off a vigil 60 miles at sea for other survivors. Daylight showed only empty boats and debris.

"Negative sightings," a Coast Guard cutter reported finally on Sunday.

"All the missing persons are presumed lost or drowned burned or trapped on the ship when she went down," said Lt. William Wilson, Coast Guard search and rescue coordinator in Miami.

The steamer Yarmouth, sister ship to the Yarmouth Castle, made ready to leave Miami at 4:45 p.m. today on its regular four-day cruise to the Bahamas.

"A lot of people got sore Saturday when we canceled the cruise," said Leo Rosen, a spokesman for Yarmouth Cruises Inc. He said advance bookings made for Yarmouth Castle cruises would be honored.

Along with the Yarmouth Castle and her victims went money, valuables, and in most cases clothing of the passengers who awoke in their staterooms, groped in nightclothes through smoky corridors and tumbled into lifeboats or slid down ropes into the sea.

Agents of the steamer's owners set up an office at a Miami hotel to note claims, arrange transportation and cash checks for survivors.

Pick Locks

In another operation, locksmiths picked the door locks of automobiles some cruise passengers parked at the Miami dock and made keys to replace those lost on the Yarmouth Castle.

Replacing lost eyeglasses was a problem for many survivors.

Dale Herman, 62, of East Cleveland, Ohio, said he probably would make appointments with an optometrist for himself and his wife, Lillian, 58. The couple left his spectacles and a spare set, plus his wife's, in their stateroom with their clothing as they caught up their 4-year-old grandson and struggled into a lifeboat.

At Pompano Beach, north of Miami, the North Broward Senior Citizens Club mourned 27 members listed as missing on the ship they boarded for a gay weekend outing.

Hampered By Age

Loren Hicks, who organized the club, said all those on the trip were in their late 60s and would have been handicapped by age and infirmities in trying to flee the blazing vessel.

Among the survivors was Martin Strok, 23, of Chicago and his bride Judy, 22, wed Nov. 6 and honeymooning on the Yarmouth Castle.

They made it to a lifeboat and

U. S. Planes, Infantry Hit North Vietnamese

The last attack in battalion strength lasted for four hours.

The site is 6 miles from the Cambodian border and about 12 miles west of the Special Forces camp at Plei Me.

At least 350 Communists were killed in the siege of the Plei Me camp last month and mop-up operations since, according to U.S. officials. Troops of the U.S. 1st Cavalry Airmobile Division have remained in the area looking for the big Communist force that besieged the camp.

U.S. planes flew more than 100 sorties against the three North Vietnamese battalions battling the cavalrymen today. The spokesman said American intelligence officers had identified the enemy as North Vietnamese.

One American company was hit from three sides by an estimated three companies of Communists. A sharp see-saw battle followed but the Americans held their ground, the spokesman said.

Senior American commanders in the Plei Me area estimated earlier that more than 850 Communists had been killed since the enemy first attacked the Plei Me camp Oct. 19. The U.S. 1st Cavalry Airmobile Division has accounted for about 150 air attacks and Vietnamese forces for the rest.

Since the siege of the camp was lifted, the cavalrymen have remained in the area looking for the big Communist force that attacked the camp.

Father of Four Kills Self After Wounding Wife

BURLINGTON (AP) — A father of four children wounded his estranged wife and father-in-law in a family quarrel, then stood crying in a corner and shot himself to death Sunday night, authorities said.

The wife and her father were listed in satisfactory condition at a Burlington hospital, where Harold Eugene Schultz, 38, of rural Genoa City, was dead on arrival.

Schultz' wife, Marilyn, 37, was struck in the thigh by one of the 25 caliber bullets. Her father, James E. Buss, 60, of rural Burlington, was wounded in the abdomen.

The shootings happened in the kitchen of the Buss home four miles north of here. Winholt quoted relatives as saying Schultz came to the home and began arguing with his wife, fired two shots wildly, and then fired the two that wounded Mrs. Schultz and Buss.

Blackout Initiated In Ontario

TORONTO (AP) — Hydro Chairman Ross Strike said today that last week's power blackout in the United States and Canada was caused by a relay breaking at St. Adam Beck plant No. 2 at Queenston, Ont.

Hydro was importing a total of 1.6 million kilowatts in power on the six lines going into the plant and the relay break caused all other relays to go out, Strike told a news conference.

The 1.6 million kilowatts were thrown onto the U.S. distribution facilities, causing a very rapid increase in frequency, he added, and this tripped safety equipment but all of it didn't work and the northeastern states and New York City were most badly hit by this surge of power.

One battalion commander, Lt. Col. Hal Moore of Bardonia, Ky., said, "We're expecting anything tonight. We definitely hurt them today. But if you go to sleep for one minute around here, you lose men."

One American company took very heavy casualties when it bore the brunt of one of the Communist's main thrusts. A platoon suffered the same fate when it was cut off from the main unit for 36 hours. In each case only a comparative few Americans escaped unscathed.

Moore said at no point did the Communist assaults—one of them battalion size—penetrate American lines.

"We were in control of the situation pretty much throughout the fighting," he said.

"The acts of heroism I've seen by my men are unbelievable. We showed them that American soldiers can fight their kind of war."

He cited Lt. Joseph Mar of Chicago, Ill., who charged a machine-gun position and took it out single handed with a barrage of grenades and using his bayonet.

Another company commander was hit in the back and chest but continued to lead his men for five hours until he was evacuated by helicopter.

Viet Cong Not Unlike Whites In Rhodesia

Each Is Minority Group Seeking to Run Government

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — Critics of American policy in Viet Nam can test the validity of their thinking by asking themselves what they believe should be done about Rhodesia.

The principle is the same in both cases, an attempt by a minority to take over a government. In Viet Nam the Viet Cong guerrillas were in the minority in Rhodesia the whites, outnumbered 17 to 1 by Negroes, were the minority. The United States, when all else failed, used force to try to crush the Viet Cong in Viet Nam. Critics say the United States should not have intervened. Would the same critics say that force, if all else fails, should not be used to crush the new white government in Rhodesia?

In the British colony of Rhodesia, with 225,000 whites and 4 million Negroes, the whites last week declared independence and set up their own government, a white man's government.

Remain Masters
That was the purpose, to be sure the whites, who have been the masters, remain masters by ignoring the wishes or rights of the overwhelming Negro population.

This was the defiance of the British government which had been willing to grant independence if the Negroes were guaranteed eventual control of the new government in a land where the whites are mostly of British origin.

But the leaders of other African nations in the United Nations assailed Britain for not taking more drastic action and rammed through the General Assembly a resolution demanding that Britain stamp out the "rebellion."

Other Measures
One of them, Diallo Telli of Guinea, secretary-general of the Organization of African Unity, told a news conference that if the Rhodesian problem could not be solved by peaceful means, the African states would take other measures.

He said the Africans would "defend" themselves to make sure that Rhodesia's black masses are not "enslaved" by 225,000 white settlers.

It might be argued that since Rhodesia is a British colony, Britain would be justified in using force to crush the action of the Rhodesian whites to make sure the millions of Rhodesian Negroes could run the country.

But would other African states be justified in butting in with force to correct this injustice? Those who oppose the American intervention in Viet Nam could hardly say yes to the question without contradicting themselves.

Request By Saigon
After the French were driven out of Viet Nam in 1954 and the country was divided into halves, Communist North Viet Nam and non-Communist South Viet Nam, the United States stepped in at the request of the Saigon government to help the South survive.

Its help was mostly economic in the beginning. But as the Viet Cong guerrillas began their bush war, aided and no doubt directed by the North Vietnamese Communists, the United States began providing weapons to the South.

There was never any doubt of the Viet Cong's purpose to overthrow the legitimate government of South Viet Nam where the Communists were a minority and set up a government which would be Communist sooner or later.

When the Viet Cong eventually made such progress that South Viet Nam's ability to resist began to crumble, the United States moved in to save it with American men and planes.

The American action was not entirely unselfish. For its own sake this country does not want communism to dominate Asia, certainly not Southeast Asia which would wind up under Red Chinese thumb.

But critics of American intervention argue the Vietnamese, North and South, should be allowed to work out their own problem, as if the Viet Cong campaign were just some kind of spontaneous uprising.

By their reasoning — that people should be allowed to work out their own problems, if the critics are trying to argue this should be a universal rule — there should be no outside effort to prevent white minority seizure of power in Rhodesia.

Although the Rhodesian whites didn't have to wage guerrilla war to seize power — they had the arms and the army and the Negroes didn't — is there any basic difference between Viet Cong and the white Rhodesians?
